Ontario Votes 2014

Every week until the election, The Expositor will be posing a question to each candidate in the Algoma-Manitoulin riding and publishing their responses in our newspaper. We have asked that the candidates restrict their answer to a 600-word limit. Otherwise, they are free to answer in any way they choose.

Many of Northern Ontario's higher-paying jobs in rural communities are related to resource industries so the proposed Ring of Fire chromium ore extraction development, and the interest by one of the principal investors in locating its smelter in the regional community of Capreol, is potentially important for Algoma-Manitoulin.

The provincial Liberals have promised a $1 billion investment towards infrastructure to assist in the Ring of Fire development but with the proviso that the federal government must match this amount. In the event that the government of Canada chooses not to participate and with the understanding that this development represents an enormous number of jobs for Northern Ontario over a long time, is your party prepared for Ontario to "get it done and go it alone" in order to facilitate this development? What would be its approach?

Richard Hadidian, Libertarian

The Ring of Fire is a promising project that could bring prosperity to Northern Ontario, but we should be careful on how we spend the taxpayer's hard earned money. Given the importance and the amount of revenue that this could bring to the province (revenue that not only will benefit people in Northern Ontario but will help balance the budget) we will support infrastructure projects only if the lack of government action will stop this development from moving forward.

As an engineer working in the mining industry, I have seen some subsidies to big corporations that simply do not make sense. The taxpayer ends up paying for something that the corporation was going to pay for anyway because it will be profitable. The perfect example of this is subsidies for energy savings studies. When I was working for my former employer, we had to develop a cost-benefit analysis on an energy savings project for a mine in Northern Ontario. From our analysis we concluded that the

The Ring of Fire is one of the most promising mineral developments discovered in over a century on a scale that can only be compared to the great Sudbury Basin. This massive mining development project has a worth estimated at $60 billion and the potential to create thousands of jobs. Its positive effects will be felt across the North and all of Ontario and Canada for generations to come.

Investing in infrastructure is vital to developing the Ring of Fire. I am incredibly proud that under the leadership of Kathleen Wynne, the Ontario Liberals will invest $1 billion to develop infrastructure in the region.

Unfortunately, the NDP chose to put their own political interests ahead of Ontario's North when they announced they would not support the budget. In saying no to the budget they said no to this $1 billion infrastructure investment, putting it at risk in favour of an expensive election.

The Ontario Liberals have taken action.

The Ring of Fire, and other natural resource sector projects in Algoma-Manitoulin and across Northern Ontario, represents an enormous economic opportunity in the region. Projects of this size require strong action and planning from the government of Ontario. Yet, the current Liberal government has done nothing over the past five years to come up with a plan that will create jobs, build infrastructure and reduce the high price of electricity.

Northerners have seen the big announcements made by Liberals fail to materialize. Instead of a plan that could create thousands of jobs annually, this government has sat on the sidelines as companies and investors walked away from Ontario taking those good paying jobs with them.

Unfortunately, this is nothing new. Two years ago this same Liberal government announced they'd reached a deal with Cliffs to create jobs in Sudbury. But last year, Cliffs halted operations in Ontario after

We need a premier who believes that what the oilsands are to Alberta and potash is to Saskatchewan, the Ring of Fire can be to Ontario.

Returning Ontario as the No. 1 mining jurisdiction in Canada will require a premier who will end the uncertainty and indecision around prospecting, developing and mining.

Tim Hudak will be that premier.

In her pre-election rollout of $5.7 billion in loot-bag money she does not have, Liberal Premier Kathleen Wynne attempted in vain to up the ante for those of us in the Northern netherworld with an all-in pledge of $1 billion for the Ring of Fire.

But, let's be real. We've all read her play-book.

It's straight from the Dalton McGuinty's script. It begins with his very first promise in 2003 not to raise taxes, one that even came with a signed pledge not to raise taxes an iota without first holding a referendum.

It was only the first of many things the

Wiky to open eco-adventure park at Point Grondine territory

New park, trails and campground will be part of Georgian Bay Coastal Trail

by Robin Burridge

POINT GRONDINE—Wikwemikong is working on two more exciting band developments, creating the Point Grondine Eco-Adventure Park and Mahzenazing Lake Campground and partnering with the Georgian Bay Coastal Trail to develop a 60 km trail within the park.

Point Grondine was amalgamated into the Wikwemikong Unceded Indian Reserve in 1968, leading the Wikwemikong Heritage Organization to begin archaeological and historical surveys to document the sites and cultural heritage of the Point Grondine land base.

"In 2007, the Wikwemikong Department of Lands and Resources began a project at Point Grondine to construct a campground that would capitalize on the overflow from Killarney Provincial Park," a press release from Wikwemikong's website states. "Several primitive campsites, trails and a cordwood building were constructed. Wikwemikong Tourism has since adopted and revitalized the project as it is a vital component of their vision of sustainable tourism development and an important piece of the Georgian Bay Coastal Trail."

"Point Grondine Park has 7,000 hectares of land and contains eight interior lakes," Wikwemikong Tourism Manager Luke Wassegijig told The Expositor during an interview on the park's development earlier this week. "This summer we will be developing the main entrance to the park off of Killarney Highway 637, as well as the main parking lot and administrative building (gatehouse) as phase one of the park project."

Mr. Wassegijig also told The Expositor that Wikwemikong would be opening two trails, Merv's Landing, a five kilometre loop, and the 15 km Wemtagoosh Falls Loop as part of the Georgian Bay Coastal Trail.

"Merv's Landing, a beautiful new five kilometre loop, takes you to the summit overlooking the white quartzite mountains of the Killarney mountain range," a press release notes. "Merv's Landing begins at the trail head of the Point Grondine Park and is a single tract, natural surfaced trail that flows through hardwood and pine stands, crosses beaver dams via a handcrafted pine bridge to Recollet's Summit."

"For the more adventurous outdoor enthusiast, the Wemtagoosh Falls Loop is a self guided hike that will take you into the interior of the Point Grondine Park for an overnight adventure along the Georgian Bay Coastal Trail," continues the release.

"Both trails will be open from August 8 through to Thanksgiving weekend, but only to specific target groups," explained Mr. Wassegijig. "We will be testing the product as we continue to develop the park. Large groups who wish to explore these trails can contact Wikwemikong Tourism and we will do our best to accommodate them."

Also opening this summer will be the Kaa-Gaa-Genhs Water Trail from the French River to Collins Inlet, which will be available to all from July to September.

"The self-guided canoeing/kayaking water trail will start at the French River Park at Hartleys Bay and travel to the Southern Coast of Point Grondine to Collins Inlet," said Mr. Wassegijig. "There will be campsites available along the route with permits available for purchase from www.grondinepark.com (which is not live yet), by calling 705-859-3477 or through the Killarney Provincial Park website (ontariopark.com/park/killarney)."

Mr. Wassegijig told The Expositor that since the project's inception, the Point Grondine Park has created 15 seasonal jobs, with six to eight further jobs to be created this summer.

Another critical element of the park project is the partnership between Ontario Parks and Wikwemikong.

"We have a partnership with Killarney (Provincial Park), which has been instrumental in providing housing for our staff, as well as currently working on a training mentorship for our park employees with their staff," explained Mr. Wassegijig.

"Killarney has been helping with development by providing guidance to ensure that the Point Grondine Park will meet the same standards and guidelines as other parks throughout the province," Wikwemikong Chief Duke Peltier added. "With the eco park (part of phase two of the project) we hope to have 15 eco-friendly accommodations, in addition to showers and other park amenities."

Funding for the new park has been made possible thanks to both provincial and federal funding opportunities, noted Mr. Wassegijig, in addition to an investment from Wikwemikong.

For more information on the Point Grondine Eco-Adventure Park and Mahzenazing Lake Campground, visit www.wikwemikong.ca or call Luke Wassegijig at 705-859-3477.

Kill education bill now, says Grand Chief Madahbee

NIPISSING FIRST NATION—The Minister of Indian Affairs shouldn't be delaying his proposed First Nations education legislation, says Anishinabek Nation Grand Council Chief Patrick Madahbee, he should be disposing of the badly flawed bill right now, a press release from the office of the Union of Ontario Indians (UOI) states.

"First Nations have been developing their own systems for years and we don't need the Minister of Indian Affairs looking over our shoulders," says Chief Madahbee, responding to Indian Affairs Minister Bernard Valcourt's statement that Bill C-33—the First Nations Control of

Some farms still not registered as farm businesses

Those without ID numbers are not eligible for kill compensation

by Alicia McCutcheon

MANITOULIN—Two years into the revamped Ontario Wildlife Damage Compensation Program and some farmers have still not registered, Assignack council learned last week.

At the last meeting of Assignack council, clerk Alton Hobbs brought forward an issue with members of council regarding a wildlife compensation claim that was turned down due to the farm not being registered. The clerk questioned whether the municipality should pay the compensation regardless of the denial, then work out the details later.

Councillor Bob Case gave an emphatic "no," stating that farmers have had two years to register their farms with Agricorp (1-866-327-3678) and receive a farm business registration number as well as call for their premises identification number (by calling 1-855-697-7743) through a ministry vendor.

"There is no cost to getting these numbers," Councillor Case continued. "The onus is on you."

Brian Bell, Manitoulin Island ag rep with the Ontario Ministry of Food, Agriculture and Rural Affairs, explained that Councillor Case was correct in that in order to receive wildlife damage compensation, farms must be a registered farm business, meaning that farmers must be able to show that they have a gross farm income of $7,000 or more (for income tax purposes). Without this, farmers will not receive compensation from livestock kills.

Once registered with Agricorp, the farmer must choose one of the three accredited farm organizations—National Farmers Union, Ontario Federations of Agriculture or Christian Farmers Federation of Ontario—to belong to and to pay relevant membership fees, which acts as the organizations' stable funding.

There are exemptions for joining the groups, however, such as religious exemption from the Agriculture Food and Rural Affairs Appeal Tribunal or a confirmation letter provided by the Indian Agricultural Program of Ontario.

Claims must be made to the municipality within 48 hours of an animal's injury or death whereby the municipality's valuer will make an investigation within three days.

Small communities should not be burdened with policing costs

This is a question that this newspaper will pose to the Algoma-Manitoulin candidates seeking election to Queen's Park in June: "what will your government do to assist small municipalities with the burden of policing costs?" so when they are reading this commentary, this is a heads up.

During the Mike Harris Progressive Conservative mandate, many costs previously borne by the province were downloaded to municipalities via the District Services Boards (DSB) that were created to administer social services. Offsetting revenues, to assist small municipalities like the ones on Manitoulin, were offered through a vehicle called the Community Reinvestment Fund.

Later on, policing costs were also downloaded to the "users," the citizens who pay taxes in each of Ontario's municipalities that are served by the Ontario Provincial Police (OPP) with the idea that this new municipal bill would also be paid directly by taxpayers through a new charge added to their tax bills.

Meanwhile, the Community Reinvestment Fund was renamed the Ontario Municipal Partnership Fund (OMPF) by the Liberal government that succeeded the PCs and it has become clear that while downloaded services have grown more costly, the offsetting OMPF revenues have diminished.

In fact, the OMPF was never meant to compensate the costs related to OPP services so these have become a distinct tax burden on their own.

With the new formula for OPP services, and using Manitoulin Island as an example, virtually all municipalities will pay more for the same thing, with the exception of the Northeast Town that the formula happens to favour.

There is a widespread appeal from small municipalities with populations of under 5,000 people that, for them, this burden is practically universally an onerous one and that the province should reassume this particular identifiable cost.

The model for downloading all of the services (ambulance, social housing, Ontario Works/welfare and, of course, OPP policing) is that the user should pay, with increasingly minimal levels of assistance, from senior governments.

With a long and cold winter such as the one we've just experienced, many people have scraped by —just— to stay warm in their homes and have had to purchase more fuel oil, propane, cords of wood or kilowatt hours of electrical energy than they had budgeted for.

And then their taxes (or their rents if they're tenants) go up because of the cost of services over which they have no control.

Suggestions of assistance to small municipalities, and hence taxpayers, to share this burden were conspicuously absent from the recent budget that was the final straw that brought down the minority provincial Liberal government.

But assistance in this way would be a very direct economic stimulator and would certainly be an identifiable infusion of capital into small, rural communities in the sense that it's money that would be able to be spent at home.

The uploading of these costs is of significant importance to all of us who live in Manitoulin's municipalities and should become an aspect of this election's discussion.

Larry Killens grades performance of incumbent MPP

In relation to education it is an F-

To the Expositor:

Here we are, thrown under the bus, set to endure another provincial election with all the political rhetoric that goes with it—depressing enough to follow a federal election next year. Counting? Nine elections in total, both federal and provincial, since year 2000. What have we learned?

A Google search tells me it is at a cost each time in excess of 94 millions of dollars! (2011 figure) Money not spent on education, health and other needs and we, the persons who put the money there, will not reap any benefits.

Andrea Horvath, leader of the NDP, "pulled the trigger" so to speak, to start the certainty for the need of an election and expenditure of taxpayer money.

As this paper is one of the most important vehicles by which we citizens share our news, views and thoughts, I respectfully ask to share mine with you.

In the budget, examples of promises that served to excite me personally, were increased taxing of people who make in excess of 150,000 dollars! That means no one on the Island will get hurt with that for sure.

For the third time, legislation giving the ability of the Ombudsman to investigate any issues citizens have with Children's Aid Society (CAS) has died on the table, again for a third time. As a result, sadly, children's services escape a democratic review.

In addition, legislation to give the Ombudsman the authority to review educational concerns of parents died as well on the table.

Most of the contents of the proposed budget were to the liking of the NDP, conceded by Andrea Horvath. She voted, for what she termed, a good reason. That reason was that she can't trust the Liberals to carry

Rainbow District School Board trustee defends Island rep

Supports Larry Killens' concerns over the way school councils are utilized

To the Expositor:

I feel I have to respond to an article that appeared in the May 7, 2014 edition of the Expositor under the title "Trustee Killens and RDSB chair butt heads over role of School Council."

First of all, Trustee Killens is not alone in his concern over the way School Councils are being utilized by the RDSB and likely by most other school boards in Ontario. I too, as trustee of the RDSB Area 3, support his concerns. Under the Education Act, Regulation 612/00 establishes that the purpose of School Councils is to "through the active participation of parents, improve pupil achievement and to enhance the accountability of the education system to parents" and "A School Council's primary means of achieving its purpose is by making recommendations in accordance with this regulation to the principal of the school and the board that established the council."

With respect to the advisory authority of school councils, Section 20 of Reg. 612/00 states: "A school council may make recommendations to the principal of the school or to the board that established the council on any matter." What must be pointed out in this section is that the school council may make their recommendations on any matter and to either the principal of the school or the board.

The article reports Chair Doreen Dewar as stating that trustees should be working as a "liaison between the parents and the principal." I disagree with this statement since a trustee has no authority to bring concerns of parents to the principal, but must rather bring those concerns to the board of trustees. It is only the board that has the authority to bring those concerns to the principal through the director. That is the governance model that exists under the Education Act.

The Education Act clearly states that it is a "duty" of individual trustees to bring concerns of parents, students and supporters of the board to the attention of the board. Therefore, once a trustee becomes aware of one of these concerns there is an obligation on the trustee to bring the concern to the attention of the board.

There is an obligation under the regulations for the board to respond to each of the concerns and to indicate to the School Council how these concerns will be handled.

Under Board Governance Policy No. 14, "The board may solicit and take into consideration the advice of its parent involvement committee with regard to matters that relate to improving student achievement and well-being, and shall inform the parent involvement committee of its response to advice provided by the committee."

Therefore, getting back to the main issue in the article, since the board decided to send the new governance manual to the school councils for their review, this was a direct solicitation of advice and feedback. Trustee Killens and myself were both concerned that the School Councils would not have time in two months to call a meeting and consult with parents in order to provide this feedback. We were not disagreeing with the content of the manual, only the process that was used and the lack of opportunity that was given to the School Councils to participate.

Indeed, the role of School Councils has largely been eroded from what was first intended when the Ministry of Education established them. School Councils were to play a much more significant role with respect to ensuring accountability and transparency of school boards, but they have become nothing much more than the old parent-teacher associations that once existed to help with pizza sales and fun fairs. Those are extremely important to the success of any school. But School Councils were intended to play a much greater role in an advisory and accountability capacity to the school board.

I do agree with Chair Dewar that a board of trustees is a democratic process and we are expected to make decisions on behalf of our constituents, but we are also obligated to fulfill our responsibilities to School Councils and parents when we solicit their input and we must recognize the role of the trustee as one of the most effective ways for School Councils to express their concerns to the board.

Sincerely,

Robert Kirwan

Ontario provincial election 2014

Richard Hadidian
When it comes to government, less is more

Richard Hadidian is the Libertarian Party candidate for the Algoma-Manitoulin riding in the Ontario provincial elections on June 12.

Mr. Hadidian said in his bio press release that he believes in “less government, less taxes, more choices and more freedom.”

An engineer in the mining industry for the last six years, Mr. Hadidian is originally from Venezuela, moving to Canada in 2007 and settling in Toronto for a year before moving to Sudbury in March 2008.

Since moving to Sudbury, Mr. Hadidian has worked for an engineering consulting firm that provides services to mines in Northern Ontario, across Canada and globally.

Mr. Hadidian said that he has been interested in politics from an early age. He credited that interest to his home country of Venezuela, which he said has experienced an extensive history of political unrest.

He attributes the cause of Venezuela’s decline to less economic freedom, citing a lack of respect for private property, excessive regulation, more taxes and an excessive dependence on government as examples of declines in economic freedom.

Mr. Hadidian said he decided to move to Canada because he knew that here he could have “a more prosperous future due to the improved social and economical freedoms that do not currently exist in Venezuela.” He asserts that to achieve prosperity a society needs to provide its people with “as much freedom as possible.”

He said that he believes the only party that represents this ideal is the Libertarian Party.

Outside of politics, Mr. Hadidian’s passions include travelling, tennis, camping and spending time with family and friends across the North and abroad.

Craig Hughson
An experienced and practical approach to getting things done

Algoma-Manitoulin Liberal candidate Craig Hughson’s bio touts the longtime Grit as “a proud Northerner, father and small businessman who served the riding of Algoma-Manitoulin as part of MPP Mike Brown’s office for seven years.”

Following his stint in the former Algoma-Manitoulin MPP’s office, Mr. Hughson went on to work for a number of cabinet ministers before stepping out to a successful career in the private sector. “More than a dozen years at Queen’s Park gave Craig a first-hand view of government and politics from many angles,” notes his official bio.

While working in the government, Mr. Hughson served as “the chief of staff and senior policy advisor to several cabinet ministers in the Government of Ontario, including Natural Resources, Aboriginal Affairs, Health Promotion, Government Services and Consumer Services.”

Mr. Hughson served as a vice president of one of the world’s largest public relations firms and was the director of public affairs at the Canadian Association of Chain Drug Stores. He is currently a founding partner in a government and public relations firm serving clients such as the Ontario Federation of Anglers and Hunters and the Canadian Union of Public Employees.

Mr. Hughson is a graduate of Manitoulin Secondary School and Canadore College and has earned diplomas in both small business management and small business administration.

Mr. Hughson’s bio lists his passions as including hunting and fishing, as well as spending time at the family camp in Echo Bay and his parents residence in Elliot Lake, although he admits that being on the campaign trail has meant he has had very little opportunity to hang his hat there.

Mr. Hughson has two children, Jacob and Emily, and still volunteers his time as a minor league hockey coach and referee.

Michael Mantha
A life spent working on behalf of Northern labour and families

Algoma-Manitoulin incumbent Michael Mantha was the New Democratic Party (NDP) critic for Northern Development and Mines before his party’s leader Andrea Horwath effectively sent the province to the polls with the announcement that the NDP would not support the Liberal’s 2014 budget.

Before being elected to the legislature, Mr. Mantha worked with the federal NDP, acting as a constituency worker for Algoma-Manitoulin-Kapuskasing MP Carol Hughes. Prior to his work with the NDP constituency office, Mr. Mantha was employed with the Ontario Ministry of Training, Colleges and Universities assisting displaced workers in accessing social services and training.

Mr. Mantha was a labour representative for 22 years and spent four years with United Steelworkers local 1-2693.

Mr. Mantha’s official bio asserts that as an MPP in the legislature, he “has been a strong voice for rural healthcare, safe road conditions, Northern jobs and affordability. Michael has spent his career standing up for Northern workers and improving life for Northern families.”

The NDP leader refused to support the Liberal budget despite the inclusion of many NDP-friendly line items citing a distrust of Premier Kathleen Wynne and her party to deliver the goods. The NDP has focussed its early campaign messages on “family friendly” policies such as taking the HST off of consumer hydro bills and providing a $100 million boost to affordable childcare, but Ms. Horwath began the campaign season with an investment tax credit promise aimed at increasing employment in the manufacturing sector by tying the credit for businesses to the creation of jobs and purchasing of equipment and buildings in Ontario.

Mr. Mantha lives in Elliot Lake with his wife Pauline and their two sons.

Jib Turner
End the bureaucratic runaround that inhibits job creation

Algoma-Manitoulin Progressive Conservative candidate Byron Turner is universally known on Manitoulin (and Algoma) as ‘Jib,’ a nickname that invokes his family’s longtime association with all things nautical across the North Channel and Georgian Bay. A fifth-generation Manitoulin merchant, Mr. Turner is the owner of Turners of Little Current Ltd, a general merchandise store that has served the Island since the mid-to-late 1800s. He is also involved in the construction and land development industries.

Mr. Turner asserts that a continuation of the Liberal government “will lead us deeper into debt and the NDP will chase more businesses away with more taxes,” in the release announcing his appointment as the PC candidate. “It is time for a change in Ontario. Only the Ontario PC Party is ready to make the necessary decisions to get Northern jobs growing again.”

Mr. Turner went on to cite Progressive Conservative leader Tim Hudak’s Million Jobs Plan, which he said would “produce more jobs and increase take-home pay through lower taxes and less debt; ensure affordable energy that will create jobs, not eliminate them; train more skilled workers to meet the demand in trades and help young people find good jobs; increase trade with our neighbours; and end the bureaucratic runaround that inhibits job creation.”

The Progressive Conservative platform announcements have been notable for departure from those of their competitors. Mr. Hudak has vowed to eliminate 100,000 public service jobs (citing 10 percent as a reduction number, although there are only 800,000 public sector employees in the province) targeting workers in the provincial, educational and municipal sectors while cutting corporate tax rates by 30 percent. Born, raised and currently residing in Little Current, Mr. Turner has two children and two grandchildren.

War Pensioners of Canada hold Ceremony of Remembrance to commemorate VE Day

WIKWEMIKONG—The War Pensioners of Canada (WPC) hosted a Ceremony of Remembrance last Thursday at the Wikwemikong Cenotaph to commemorate Victory in Europe (VE) Day, as well as pay tribute to those who perished in the Holocaust and honour Afghanistan veterans (for National Day of Honour for Afghanistan Veterans on May 9).

“On this day in 1945 there was celebration all across Europe,” said Mr. Pick. “We honour those veterans who served and those who gave their lives for their country. In recognizing VE Day, we also have to remember the Holocaust and all those that perished. Even though it is something people tend to like to put in the back of their minds, it is something we should remember. Also tomorrow is the National Day of Honour at Parliament Hill, honouring the over 158 young people who lost their life fighting in Afghanistan.”

Three-year-old alerts grandparents to woman in distress

LITTLE CURRENT—Three-year-old Kyllun Green was visiting the home of Connie Pinand in Little Current when he garnered some pretty impressive hero credentials after alerting his family to an accident taking place on the sidewalk across the street.

Although pretty new to this whole talking thing, young Mr. Green made up for any shortcomings in articulation with perceptive persistence in the face of an emergency.

“He said ‘Gramma, Gramma, lady on the sidewalk she fall’,” said Peggy Green, the boy’s grandmother who lives in Little Current. “We had just been to visit great grandmother Freda Farquhar in the Manor. Then we walked over to Channelview Apartments (next door to the Manor). I didn’t think too much of it at first.” Ms. Green and her grandson had gone on a second visit to see her aunt, Connie Pinand.

The observant young man was insistent and they went to look out the window to see what he was upset about. Outside on the sidewalk, across the street, an elderly woman had fallen on the sidewalk. They rushed to her aid.

“She was in a lot of pain,” said Ms. Green. “Some people came out of the Manor with something to cover her up until the ambulance got there.”

Ms. Green estimated that it was somewhere between a half hour and 40 minutes before an EMS crew was on the scene. “I don’t know where they came from,” she said. “Mindemoya maybe?”

with the Northeast Town council recently. Ambulance response to critical incidents is mandated to be under six minutes, but the distances and low population numbers in rural areas like Manitoulin often mean the closest ambulance is on another call and the responding crew must come in from Wikwemikong, Mindemoya or even further afield.

Luckily for the elderly woman who fell on the sidewalk, Kyllun Green was on watch.

“He’s a pretty special little guy,” said Ms. Green. “We are pretty proud of him.”

Severe winter leads to reduction in antlerless deer tag permits for 2014 hunt

by Jason Forrest
KAGAWONG—With a harsh unrelenting winter and a slow start to a spring green-up, the chances of getting a doe tag for the 2014 hunting season will be slimmer than last year.

A deer management meeting for Manitoulin Island west (43A) and east (43B) wildlife management units (WMUs) was held at the Kagawong community complex April 30 to discuss the state of the deer population and how many tags will be distributed for the 2014 hunting season.

With an estimated 40 percent of last year’s fawn population wiped out due to weather conditions, according to Wayne Selinger, area biologist for the Ministry of Natural Resources (MNR), he will be strongly recommending a substantial decrease in doe tags for the east and West End, respectively, he told the meeting.

Mr. Selinger recommended WMU zone 43A be reduced from 400 tags to 300 tags, but 13 people of the 19 present at the meeting voted to recommend to reduce the tags to 100 for the 2014 hunting season. John Seabrook voted for zero tags.

As for WMU zone 43B, Mr. Selinger recommended a drop from 3,500 to 2,750 tags. Three people agreed with Mr. Selinger, but nine people voted to reduce it further, to 2,500 tags for the 2014 hunting season, so the recommendation will be for the latter figures to be used.

“Last year we kept it the same across the board, and I was of the mind to increase the tags this year, but the winter took more deer than hunters could and there is no way we can raise it this year,” said one person at the meeting.

The ministry uses multiple tools to gauge the population of deer on Manitoulin Island: motor vehicle collisions (MVC), the post card survey of hunting results from the year before and check stations measuring deer condition of harvested deer.

“MVC data is showing an all-time peak in 2003 and then as a result of aggressive harvest targets we brought the herd down, then with a bad winter in 2009 a decrease was seen until a rise in 2010. It seems in 2013 we are back to the same level of deer we were dealing with in 2003,” Mr. Selinger said.

According to Mr. Selinger, the estimated 2013 harvest numbers are 413 deer in 43A and 2,910 in 43B, a total of 3,323 deer harvested from Manitoulin Island. Broken down, the 413 deer harvested from the West End amounts to approximately 85 does, 45 fawns and 280 bucks.

“The east and West End used to be almost equal for the amount of deer per square kilometres, now almost 20 years later, 43A has declined since then, showing one deer per square kilometer,” Mr. Selinger said. “Now 43B is showing close to two deer per square kilometer.”

The destruction of woodland habitat, along with more intensive farming practices in the West End throughout the 1970s and ‘80s, was offered as a reason for the decline of the deer in the west end over the last few decades.

“We were purging files the other day and I came across a file from the 1970s, estimating the Manitoulin deer population at 4,500 animals. Even with the decline we’ve seen in the last few years, I still estimate the herd sitting around 14,000 deer on the Island,” Mr. Selinger said. “We have healthy deer conditions for healthy growth.”

Of the 14,000 deer, approximately 2,500 are on the West End.

“When we look at the severity of the winter we just had, with the exception of 2000-2001, this is the worst winter we’ve had since 1979,” said Mr. Selinger. “There were seven winters like this in the ‘70s, where it was over 800 on the snow depth index. We have to hope this winter was an anomaly and not a trend.”

“The populations were on an incline in 2003 and we pushed a little too hard in trying to bring the numbers down, that is why we have been cutting tags the last few years,” continued Mr. Selinger. “Last year we were talking about bringing the number of tags up, but the 2012 winter was moderate so we decided to wait one more year, and after the winter we had I can only recommend to lower tags this year. The prudent thing would be a tag cut and hopefully we don’t have to do it for long.”

Mr. Selinger asked that everyone who takes part in the deer hunt fill out their post card survey, as it provides important information such as harvest rates, population density and predator pressure. He said there is a likelihood of a deer check station going up for the Island this year, which provides info like age/sex structure, deer growth and condition and to help the government make sound, informed decisions about the state of the deer population on Manitoulin Island.

“I am hoping we have a check station this year, sampling 800 to 1,000 deer and we will have hunt data for next fall,” added Mr. Selinger.

ORV and motorcycle fatalities cause for concern this May long weekend

The Ontario Provincial Police (OPP) is reporting that off-road vehicle (ORV) deaths have reached a four-year high and the causal factors have the OPP concerned heading into the Victoria Day Long Weekend.

A total of 20 people died in ORV incidents in OPP jurisdiction during 2013, compared to 12 in 2012, 14 in 2011 and 17 in 2010. Of the 20 fatalities in 2013, 13 of them were attributed to lack of helmet use and nine of them involved alcohol consumption.

These alarming statistics have the OPP warning ORV riders who include alcohol and exclude helmets as part of their riding activity to curb these deadly behaviours before these leading causes of ORV deaths continue on an upward trend.

The OPP is also asking the public to partner with them to reduce the rising number of ORV fatalities. Officers are calling on the family members and friends of ORV enthusiasts to urge their loved ones to wear a helmet and drive sober.

“Over the past 10 years (2004-2013), a total of 263 people have died in ORV incidents within OPP jurisdiction,” said OPP Deputy Commissioner Brad Blair, Provincial Commander, Traffic Safety and Operational Support. “Imagine how much more devastating losing a family member or friend would be if you knew they were impaired or not wearing a helmet and you didn’t intervene to save their life,” Deputy Commissioner Blair added.

Motorcycle deaths are another OPP statistic that is on the rise. A total of 28 motorcyclists died (in OPP jurisdiction) in 2013, compared to 26 in 2012 and 21 in 2011. Impaired, aggressive and distracted driving are all common contributing factors in motorcycle crashes investigated by the OPP. Sadly, in some cases, the riders were not doing anything wrong when the collision occurred.

“Among the most tragic of the 26 motorcycle fatalities last year are the 11 in which the motorcyclist was driving properly at the time of the collision. Far too often, our collision reconstruction investigations reveal that the actions of another driver were a causal factor. This makes motorcycle safety an issue to which all road users need to pay close attention,” said OPP Chief Superintendent Don Bell, Commander, Highway Safety Division.

Motorcyclists are more vulnerable than other road users because motorcycles are tougher to see than other vehicles and they provide virtually no protection in the event of a crash. For this reason, all motorists need to maintain a keen awareness of their surroundings and always be on watch for motorcycles.

With high volumes of traffic expected over the long weekend, OPP officers throughout the province will be doing their part to keep people safe, both on and off-road. They are counting on one of their most valued partners—the many drivers and ORV enthusiasts who head out this weekend—to drive and ride safely in a collective effort to get through the weekend incident-free.

Leading up to and over the May Long Weekend, the OPP will also be taking part in Canada Road Safety Week, which runs from May 13-19. During the campaign, the OPP and its policing partners will be focusing their education and enforcement efforts on the “Big Four” driving behaviours on Ontario roads that place all roads users at risk. These are: driving impaired by alcohol or drugs, failure to use or improper use of seat belts, distracted and aggressive driving.

Manitoulin Sporting Life

Sudbury rocked by Island runners

Congratulations to the Manitoulin runners who ran in last weekend's Sudbury Rocks race weekend. In the 42km marathon Mindemoya's Stacy Haner had an epic battle with the Sudbury topography to nearly beat her personal best. Five years ago on the very flat, marathon course in Ottawa, Stacy recorded an impressive 3:42:21. This past weekend, traversing Sudbury's hilly moonscape she was clocked at 3:42:21. Argh! I'm sure she doesn't need to mull this over but just half a second per kilometer faster over the 42 km would have eclipsed the 21 seconds short of an amazing personal best! This of course was nothing to sneeze at as she not only won her age group she finished in 8th place overall! Way to go Stacy!

In the half marathon, Little Current's Laurel Leconte also was the best of 30 runners in her division to finish the 21k course in just 1:46! Kicking the 10k distance was Wikwemikong's old man down the road, Mark Eshkawkogan, who took the bronze medal in his division with a, still peppy, 46 minutes for the distance.

How about 15 year old Ben Haner who put in a training run for track season, with a 19 minute 5k?! His effort was not just impressive on its own merit it was also the 2nd fastest on the day out of 800 plus participants! Ben just missed out on breaking the tape by six seconds. In another epic effort, fellow Mindemoya runner Derek Pichoski has been working on his fitness level for a year and has a brand new profile to show for it. He not only completed the 5k distance, (something that would have surprised even him a couple years ago) he ran it in 30 minutes. Way to go Derek! Hats-off to Ginette Dutrisac who crossed the line with Derek. Congratulations as well to Jacqueline Odjig and Sarah Odjig of Wikwemikong and Melissa Koschok and Derek Koschok of Little Current who also met their own goals with great finishes.

Island Soccer Championships

The annual bout for Manitoulin soccer supremacy took place last Thursday in Mindemoya for the Grade 7/8 title and in Wikwemikong for the junior championships.

On their home field Mindemoya's CMPS were undefeated and didn't allow a single goal on their way to the winning the Intermediate "A" division edging out Pontiac by a 1-0 tally. Congratulations to: Coach Lisa Pennie, and players Alayna Cranston, Matthew Redmond, Cole King, Chris Haner, Steffen Barnes, Beth Wesno, Maddy Niven, James Scott, Hunter Cranston, Trinity Leeson and Sean Orford.

In the "B" Division title LCPS was an offensive force scoring more goals than in recent memory to win the title uncontested. Hats off to: Coach April Aelick and players Jonah Nahwegahbow, Kieran Hogge, Elizabeth Wood, Sydney Koehler, Brandon Boyle, Morgan Hall, Patrick Snowden, Connor Bellmore, Jacob Clark, Madison Madahbee and Raine Farquhar.

In the "A" Consolation showdown, Little Current held out over Gore Bay to take home bragging rights. Way to go Zack Kategiannis, Kylie Biederman, Clay Dickson, Tyler Orr, Alyssa Green, Faith Taylor, Adam Goodfellow, Tianna Martin, Jesse Madahbee, Josh Robinson, Eric Varey, AJ Vankesteren and Coach Mark Volpini.

Legion Meet opportunity

Island track and field athletes have a great offer from the Gore Bay Legion Branch 514 to get free entry and registration into the District H Meet coming up at Laurentian University on June 14. It is open to all

Island athletes 17 years and under as of December 31, volunteer registrar Darryl Leighton is hoping to maintain the strong representation from Manitoulin Island again this year. For the last couple of meets the local Branch covered the registration costs for all Island athletes in various events. With meet-day registration not permitted Darryl's offer will not only save families money but he will make things a lot easier. The deadline to send him information however is Monday, June 2 so please contact him in advance so he can get the necessary forms out to you. Call him at 282-9946 or email: dtleighton@hotmail.com

Throwaholic writes...

The Canadian, under-16 shot-put and discus record-holder Evansville's Joseph Maxwell has been generous with his vast knowledge. The teen is very methodical in his training and takes videos of all his throws and analyzes every, limb angle, release point and all possible metrics. Joseph recently contributed to the website, Throwaholics.com on an advantage that he recognized during his training. This small advantage he noticed in his analysis, consistently added 5m to his already, massive, 50m discus throw! For a lot of chuckers, a gain of 5m might actually double their toss and Joseph is willing to explain that extending his body to maximum stretch at a certain point of his delivery is giving him a measurable improvement. Good on you Joe!

Deidre Debassige named First Defence at National Aboriginal Tournament

by Alicia McCutcheon

SUDBURY—It takes a lot of stamina and commitment to be Deidre Debassige, the Sudbury Lady Wolves defence phenom from M'Chigeeng, but it's all worth it when there's back-to-back women's hockey national titles to fight for.

Deidre was part of the provincial champion Sudbury Lady Wolves and also part of a Manitoulin trio of talented players on the team that The Expositor profiled last month, following them to the Esso Cup nationals where the girls took home the bronze medal, calling it the best experience of their hockey lives.

"The way we were treated and the calibre of hockey was so awesome," Deidre said.

Then on Saturday, April 27, immediately following the bronze medal game, Deidre packed her bags and headed for Montreal where she was again representing her province, playing defence for Team Ontario at the National Aboriginal Hockey Championships (NAHC). Her first practice with Team Ontario was the next day, Sunday morning—no chance of a rest for Deidre, with two games on Tuesday to start the tournament.

Of the five games in the leadup to the championship, four were won and one tied by Ontario, giving them a berth in the title game against Team Saskatchewan, ironic for Deidre as another Saskatchewan team, the Weyburn Goldwings, had defeated her Lady Wolves guard for a spot at the Esso Cup gold medal match.

For all her hard work, Deidre was named First Defence of the National Aboriginal Tournament with a shiny glass trophy to go with the title.

Following this whirlwind of tournament action, the young woman returned to Azilda (where she billets during the school year), had tryouts for next year's Lady Wolves squad that night followed by a 'spring ice' practice the following day. (Both she and Min-

Randy Thibault honoured for commitment to West End hockey

by Tom Sasvari

MANITOULIN—A pillar of minor hockey is going to be recognized by both the Manitoulin and Western Manitoulin (Gore Bay) Minor Hockey Associations (WMHA-GB) for his outstanding commitment to minor hockey for close to 40 years.

Randy Thibault has stepped down as a member of the MMHA executive board, as of the end of this hockey season. "Randy has been one of the real mainstays that has kept the Manitoulin (MMHA) together all these years," stated Greg Lockeyer of the MMHA last week.

"Randy was a pillar of our organization for many years," stated Sandra Rayner, secretary-treasurer of the WMMHA this year.

"He has always been fair and has demonstrated a tremendous knack for solving issues in a fair and diplomatic way," said Ms. Rayner.

"Randy is retiring from hockey and the MMHA and WMHA-GB minor hockey associations are holding a social on May 20," said Mr. Lockeyer. The WMHA-GB association will be recognizing Mr. Thibault during the Gore Bay Bruins hockey banquet on Tuesday, May 20 from 6:30 to 8 pm at the Gore Bay Community Hall, and this will be followed by a social for Mr. Thibault at the Gore Bay Legion from 8 to 11 pm the same evening.

"We are honouring Randy for all his years of service to minor hockey," said Mr. Lockeyer, "and we are hoping representatives from each community on the Island who are or have been involved in minor hockey will attend the social."

"Randy is retiring this year from active involvement with Manitoulin Minor hockey a role in which he has served in many different capacities such as community rep, coach, second vice-president, first vice-president, as

Congratulations to Dan Charette!

At the Northern Ontario Hockey Association (NOHA) annual general meeting and awards banquet on May 3 in Sudbury Dan Charette of Mindemoya was nominated and selected for The Tom Pashby Trainer of the Year Award. Mr. Charette was recognized for his contributions to the game of hockey, his commitment to providing trainer's clinic, and his commitment to Team NOHA for the past season. He has been a council director for the NOHA in the past, is a referee official, is currently the vice president of the Manitoulin Panthers Hockey Association and always gives freely of his time. The Dr. Tom Pashby Trainer of the Year Award recognizes outstanding dedication and service in the areas of safety and risk management in the province of Ontario. The recipient of this award exemplify commitment to the values of safety, enjoyment, fair play, education and integrity in the game of hockey through the Hockey Trainers Certification Program of Ontario. Presenting the award to Dan and acknowledging the support of his wife Leanne is Claudette Myre, third vice president of the NOHA and council director Gayle Payette of M'Chigeeng.

High scoring kicks

The Island Soccer Juniors played at Wikwemikong on Thursday, May 8. The event had a short bout of heavy rain, hail, thunder and lightning, but the players patiently waited out the weather and continued game play. Central Manitoulin Public School battled it out on the A field against CC McLean in the A final. The game ended in a 1-1 tie and continued to a shootout. CMPS players Liam Bridgeman and Owen Duncanson each scored, and Goalie Jason Millette made two awesome saves to give CMPS the win! The Island Soccer Junior A Champs are, from left, Avery Sheppard, Marjorie Scott, Morgan Wall-Varey, Amber Wahl, Madison Skippen, Laura Orford, Taylor Smith, Jason Millette, Caleb Byers, Hunter Smith, Liam Bridgeman, Carter Taziar, Jacob Wilson, Owen Duncanson and Alex Hore.

Quest for the Stangly Cup

Lunch hours at Manitoulin Secondary School are getting serious these days as 10 teams, in A and B divisions, play 12-minute games on their search for the Stangly Cup, back after a hiatus of over 10 years. In inset photo, Hailey Slomke, Stangly Cup organizer, proudly shows off the coveted trophy. This week will see the teams reduced through quarter and semi-final playdowns with championship action likely to take place next week.

"I have two spring ice practices a week, a tournament the second week in June and then a showcase tournament the third week in June," Deidre said. "I usually take July off and then practices start again for next year's Deidre keeps a pretty solid exercise routine, hitting the Good Life gym in Sudbury four times a week with fellow teammate Victoria Pitawanakwat.

Like Victoria, who has a scholarship to the Rochester Institute of Technology to play hockey, Deidre hopes to play Division I hockey in the United States, but will play hockey wherever she can after high school. Queen's University would be her first choice.

said Mr. Lockeyer.
Mr. Lockeyer said Mr. Thibault's commitment to minor hockey has been huge. "Randy's continued dedication has allowed our sons and daughters to play a game they love. While some volunteers come and go, Randy's fixture has been a permanent one and has allowed MMHA to function from year to year in a relatively smooth manner. While Randy will be the first to tell you he has worked with many dedicated people from around Manitoulin Island throughout the years, he has been the one constant and we should all be grateful. Yes, there are decisions made that perhaps people not always agree with, but Randy has stuck through the hard times to ensure that our children have a great organization looking after their well-being."

her younger brother inspires her to do her best in and out of school. She wants him to grow up to be all that he can, and for him to make a positive impact on other people's lives. Maddie has been figure skating since she was 7 years old. It has become a big part of her life and it is a great stress reliever. She really enjoys going to competitions and improving her skating skills. She has achieved senior bronze dances, junior bronze skating skills, junior bronze free skate, and Introductory Interpretive. Maddie's plan is to figure skate all through high school, and to hopefully become a level two judge someday. Maddie really enjoys staying active, on her spare time she enjoys boating, fishing, tubing, camping, snow machining, and hanging out with her friends and family. Maddie's favourite thing about sports is learning new things. After high school Maddie is planning on becoming a physio therapist and to someday hopefully work with figure skaters and other athletes. clients holistically and developing and managing their individual wellness plan, while Dr. Sankey will be performing a medical assessment and managing their medical treatment plan,” continued Ms. Wabano. “Mr. Ominika will also be incorporating the clients’ family whenever possible as well as traditional healing.”

When asked about ‘take homes’—the act of taking doses of methadone home instead of visiting the clinic daily, Chief Peltier said that council has expressed a preferred policy of no take homes.

As for whether the clinic will be open to non-band members, Chief Peltier responded, “The primary focus of the Sunrise Clinic is for our membership so right now we are focussed on servicing our band members, but I’m sure if others require service they would be welcome.”

Clients of the Sunrise Clinic will also have the option of Suboxone treatment for opiate addiction, an alternative to methadone.

Dr. Sankey of the new Sunrise Clinic for addiction treatment and the Wikwemikong Community Wellness Development Team providing questions and answers during an information session on the opening of the clinic last Monday.

Pharmacy, the Manitoulin Central Family Health Team, Ontario Works and Addiction Services, have had great success with their program and the use of Suboxone since the closure of the Water Street Clinic.

Using a similar circle of care model such as the one Wikwemikong is introducing, M’Chigeeng has been treating clients since last year, with 21 current clients, of whom five are being treated with Suboxone opposed to methadone.

“We now place all new clients on Suboxone (an alternative opiate addiction treatment to methadone),” said Mr. Beaudin. “Research shows that clients who use Suboxone have a shorter time frame of getting off the drug, while with methadone, you could be using the treatment for life.”

“Suboxone has a better track record for getting individuals off the medication,” Sam Gilchrist, the alternatives program worker at M’Nendamowin Health Services, previously told The Expositor. “It is also more difficult to be abused because of an additive called naloxone, which makes someone go into severe withdrawals if it’s injected instead of taken orally.”

Mr. Gilchrist explained that Suboxone comes in two forms including a pill, used by M’Nendamowin clients, or a dissolving strip that is placed under the tongue.

Chief Peltier said that new clients will have the option of going on Suboxone, but that the treatment plan will depend on the individual client’s needs.

Though the Sunrise Clinic isn’t scheduled to open until later this month, last week Dr. Sankey and the Wikwemikong Community Wellness Development Team provided an information session on the opening of the clinic and addiction treatment.

“It went very well,” said Chief Peltier of the session. “People are excited that this treatment will now be available in their own community while also addressing the gap in service that’s previously existed with addiction treatment.”

experience.” He also noted the annual WildER Med conference held on the Island, in which NOSM students take part.

Dr. Jeffery explained that Manitoulin just bid farewell to its first clerkships—one student from New Liskeard, the other from Sturgeon Falls.

He said that Manitoulin provides an important perspective to the clerks, with its heavy rural and First Nations component—important for those thinking of taking up a family practice in the North.

“It’s a unique spot and a great place to learn medicine,” Dr. Jeffery continued. “The kind of medicine they’ll need to know—quality medical care.”

“We’re all committed to the program and looking forward to it,” he added,

Derek Graham, Manitoulin Health Centre CEO, and Paula Fields, MHC nurse manager, led a panel discussion on the Manitoulin Island Health Care Collaborative during the Northern Ontario School of Medicine conference in Little Current.

thanking Sarah Warburton, site coordinator, for her hard work in ensuring the students are well looked after.

Following the announcement, a panel discussion, led by MHC CEO Derek

Graham and nurse manager Paula Fields, took place on the Manitoulin Island Health Care Collaborative “to give a flavour and appreciation” of the voluntary collaborative effort of the health care agencies in Manitoulin.

There was much praise for the collaboration from the audience with one doctor calling on the students to pay close attention as, “this is great information into what our health care system is. You can either force or collaborate and I applaud you for doing this.”

Kristen Taus, outreach officer for the Northeast Local Health Integration Network, told the group that whether Manitoulin is faced with increased, limited or a gap in resources, “the partners just get together and get it done. It’s wonderful to work with everyone here.”

Dr. Strasser called the collaborative effort “outstanding” and said this is often seen in rural areas and that there is much potential for urban medical centres to learn from efforts such as this.

bus trip to Manitoulin’s First Nations communities with an outing planned for Tuesday to see the Chi-Cheemaun sail into South Baymouth. Another elder has asked to see the swing bridge in Little Current, and the nursing home is making arrangements to organize a tour of this later this week too, Mr. Peltier said.

“We had 10 empty beds available, and they took all of them,” he said of the Ministry of Health and Long Term Care, which organized the evacuation.

“We usually have them for one to three weeks, but it could be a lot longer,” he said.

The Cree elders were entertained by local musicians on Sunday, much to their delight, and thanks to a call put out by Mr. Peltier to all Cree-speaking Island residents, many people have responded with each of their talents being put to good use. A storytelling session has been arranged for this week, as well as good old-fashioned visits with people who speak their language.

“Some of them knew a little bit about Wiky—they think it’s like a big city here!” he laughed. “They are surprised to see how big Wikwemikong is. It was nice watching them sit out on Friday night watching the traffic.”

“We’re trying to keep them happy and we’ll continue to show them a good time,” Mr. Peltier added, explaining that the last time the nursing home

Injured workers mount Day of Shame protest to pressure province on WSIB

by Michael Erskine
LITTLE CURRENT—A hardy group of injured workers and their supporters from the Manitoulin North Shore Injured Workers Group braved scattered showers and brisk winds to gather at the Little Current Swing Bridge on Monday for a 'Day of Shame' protest meant to bring pressure on the provincial government to stop the Workman's Insurance and Safety Board from making changes to the way injured worker's claims are adjudicated. "This has to be stopped and soon," said the group's

United Urban Warriors hold missing women blockade on Highway 17

by Michael Erskine
ESPANOLA—Demonstrations and protests over the plight of more than a thousand missing and murdered Native and aboriginal women have been taking place across the country over the past couple of years, but the Wikwemikong chapter of the United Urban Warriors Society of Ontario decided to expand the scope of their five-minute blockade of the Highway 6 and 17 intersection at Espanola last weekend. Twenty-two demonstrators gathered at the busy intersection to bring attention to not only the plight of Canadian Native women, but women across the globe.

"We decided to expand it not just for Native and aboriginal women, but for all women," said organizer Izzy Pangowish of Wikwemikong. "We wanted to do something to bring attention to what is happening all around the world to women who are being abused, murdered and who have disappeared. We just want to do something about it." Mr. Pangowish said that the catalyst for the demonstrations was the changes are going to do a lot of harm to some of the most vulnerable people in our community and they are supposed to be coming into implementation very, very soon." Mr. Pick noted that issues with the Workman's Insurance and Safety Board have already led to injured workers being much more likely to wind up homeless and on the street and that the costs associated with battling WSIB decisions cause tremendous hardship. "The human costs are horrendous," he said.

The signs wielded by the demonstrators may have been targeting Ontario Premier Kathleen Wynne and her party, but Algoma-Manitoulin Liberal hopeful Craig Hughson stopped by to hear the grievances being put forward by the group and to discuss possible solutions.

"I am a fan of sitting down and getting results," said Mr. Hughson, "not waving placards. I wish they had given me a call on this sooner." The Manitoulin North Shore Injured Workers Group was initially critical of NDP incumbent Mike Mantha's response to their issues, but the organization's spokespersons said that Mr. Mantha has since stepped up. "He (Mr. Mantha) has really gotten onboard now," said Manitoulin Legal Clinic Executive Director Mike Shain. "He is working closely with us now."

"I have met with many of these workers and their families and have brought their concerns to Queen's Park," said Mr. Mantha. "Sadly our efforts continue to fall on the deaf ears of this Liberal government."

"Since 2009 when David Marshall became the head of WSIB, we have seen drastic reduction of benefits for injured workers," continued the NDP candidate. "While Marshall receives a 20 percent bonus on his $400,000 salary, WSIB claim denial rates have shot up by 50 percent. There has been a cut of $631 million in benefits and vocational training has been slashed from 19 months to five months. The average annual benefit paid to an injured worker at a six-year post injury review has been reduced by 28.6 percent. There has also been a reduction of 31.3 percent in permanent impairment awards from 2010 to 2011."

The issue of changes to the WSIB regulatory process are not normally the stuff of debate in the legislature, being considered part of the operation of a free-standing crown agency and not a legislative matter—but Mr. Pick was not buying that argument. "They have ways of bringing these things up," he said.

The Manitoulin North Shore Injured Workers Group has vowed to keep up the pressure on the provincial government no matter who wins the current election, but they are concerned that once the changes are implemented they will be nearly impossible to overturn. "It has got to be stopped before they put them in," said Mr. Pick. "The impact of these changes will be terrible."

Among the proposed changes are the removal of an opportunity for an injured worker to make an oral argument for their appeal of a WSIB decision on a claim and the use of preexisting conditions in determining injury payouts.

"If you hurt your back as a teenager falling off your bicycle and went to the hospital to get it checked, they could bring that up in your claim 30 years later after you get hurt at work," said Mr. Pick. "Who hasn't gone to emergency for some reason over the years? They will be able to reduce your claim for all kinds of reasons and there won't be a thing you can do about it."

The WSIB was first set up 100 years ago to protect companies from injury claims by workers who are hurt on the job by preventing workers from suing in court, in return, workers were to receive fair compensation for their loss and injury through a system of payroll levies.

It's grass fire season, don't be the reason.

Every year, residents burning grass or debris ignite wildfires. In the spring, cured grass dries quickly, ignites easily and can spread out of control quickly. These fires cause property damage and cost money to extinguish. If you light it, you are responsible.

Instead of burning, you can:

- Mow and compost grass
- Chip and compost brush or use it as mulch

If you must burn:

- Don't burn when it is windy
- Light your fire two hours before sunset or later
- Burn a safe distance from anything that could catch fire
- Keep your fire small and stay with it until it is out

Lack of ministers at the Federation of Northern Ontario Municipalities conference disappoints Manitoulin reps

by Robin Burridge
SAULT STE. MARIE—Although Manitoulin municipal leaders reported a general “good experience” at the Federation of Northern Ontario Municipalities (FONOM) and Ministry of Municipal Affairs and Housing (MMAH) annual conference held last week in Sault Ste. Marie, the overarching comment was the disappointment at the lack of minister representation due to the recent election call.

“(The) FONOM (conference) was very interesting and enlightening,” Northeast Town CAO Dave Williamson told The Expositor following the conference, “but because the writ dropped there were no ministers present and the panel was lost this year.”

“The lack of ministers put a big damper on the conference,” added Northeast Town Mayor Al MacNevin.

“The conference was very good,” commented Billings Mayor and FONOM board member Austin Hunt. “There were a lot of municipal representatives in attendance. I think people were disappointed that there were no ministers due to the election, but that has happened before at a past FONOM conferences.”

“It was my first time attending the conference,” Gore Bay Mayor Ron Lane told The Expositor. “The sessions were quite interesting. It was too bad the ministers weren’t there. Myself and others had things we wished to have addressed, but all in all the conference was good.”

Central Manitoulin Mayor Gerry Strong said that he was also hoping to speak to ministry representatives from the Ministry of Transportation and the Ministry of Community Safety and Correctional Services about issues in his municipality, but that “it was understandable because of the election.”

Besides the lack of ministry representation, most Island municipal representatives including mayors and councillors from the Northeast Town, Assiginack Township, Gore Bay, Billings Township and Central Manitoulin, reported that they found the workshops and networking with other Northern municipal leaders beneficial.

“The key for me is the networking,” explained Mr. Williamson, “having the opportunity to talk with other administrators from across the region.”

“The best part of the conference was having the opportunity to meet and talk with other colleagues about the issues small municipalities are facing,” said Assiginack Councillor Leslie Fields.

Wikwemikong first community to take part in early childhood, employment survey

THUNDER BAY—Ontario Regional Chief Stan Beatty is calling the launch of the First Nations Regional Early Childhood Education and Employment Survey (FNREEES) a step in the right direction and is confident that vital data collected from First Nation communities in Ontario will provide more support for developing First Nation policy and increasing advocacy efforts.

“This program will provide us with invaluable information that will contribute to a better understanding of our needs and priorities in our communities,” Regional Chief Beatty said. “This confidential information will focus on First Nations early childhood education and employment needs. This valuable data will support policy and program development and inform decision making.”

The FNREEES is a nationally mandated First Nations Information Governance Centre survey respecting the principle of ownership, control, access and possession (OCAP). The survey is designed to generate evidence-based results to support First Nation policy, program development and advocacy efforts in these priority areas at the local, regional and national levels. The First Nations Education Coordination Unit and regional coordinator will work in partnership with First Nations communities and organizations to support implementation of the survey in Ontario.

The FNREEES is a national First Nation research project. It is being implemented by regional First Nation partners to produce on reserve First Nation population estimates at a national, regional and territorial level including select large First Nation communities.

The study is being conducted in 10 regions across Canada. The regions are the Yukon, Northwest Territories, Alberta, Saskatchewan, Manitoba, Ontario, Quebec, Nova Scotia, New Brunswick and Newfoundland. In Ontario, a sample of communities from each of the five political-territorial organizations will be identified for inclusion in this study.

Wikwemikong First

Nation is the first community to agree to participate in the FNREEES and a FNREEES survey team is preparing to begin community visits to conduct the survey over the next few weeks.

“We look forward to the collection of quality information about our community using principles of ownership, control, access and possession—done by Wikwemikong for Wikwemikong,” Ogimaa Duke Peltier of Wikwemikong First Nation said. “We can only benefit by having more complete information about early childhood development, education and employment and a better understanding of the opportunities and challenges that can lead to success.”

The FNREEES will provide community-based culturally relevant research information about Ontario First Nations in order to support collective priorities and strategic directions for building healthy strong Nations. This research project is being completed by First Nations for First Nations.

mine was going to get a significant return on investment, a number that would make any business or company pay for the service and equipment right away. The energy savings from our project were enormous. It turns out that the mine was waiting for government approval to pay for the study since it qualified as an energy savings study. So the taxpayer ended up paying for a study that the mine was going to pay for anyway because it was very profitable.

This kind of behaviour is exactly what we want to change in our provincial government. It is time to have a party that cares for taxpayer money and I believe that the Libertarian Party can bring the change that we really need.

Another great example of the private sector stepping in is the construction of ice roads in the Northwest Territories. The ice road was built by a joint venture of mining companies (Diavik Diamond Mines Inc., Dominion Diamond Corporation, and De Beers Canada Inc.) operating in the area, and shared by many users, from exploration companies to tourism outfitters and aboriginal hunters of the region.

Needless to say, the Libertarian Party and I want to see the Ring of Fire to go ahead, we just prefer that the private sector moves this forward (as they will have the greatest benefit), but if it is a real showstopper, we want to assist to make it happen.

...Craig Hughson, Liberal

The creation of a development corporation is bringing partners, and divergent industry interests, together to maximize the benefits of this incredible deposit, and make decisions on the route and mode for the infrastructure required to see this development happen. We also signed a historic regional framework agreement with the nine Mat-tawa member communities most proximate to the Ring of Fire. There is no question that these are both crucial elements to getting this project done.

We will continue to make the investments required to create jobs and grow our economy. Let me be clear: our $1 billion investment to build industrial transportation infrastructure will stay in place, but if we truly want to take advantage of this opportunity we need to ensure all communities can benefit. We need the federal government to step up and act. We need them to show that creating jobs and supporting the economy is truly a priority for their government. That's why we've asked them to match our $1 billion infrastructure investment now so that important community access infrastructure can be built.

The Ring of Fire is a project of national significance, something the federal government has recognized on several occasions. They have also made infrastructure investments of the same scale in other provinces—$508 million to support the Alberta oil sands, $130 million to support the Northwest Transmission Line in British Columbia and over $6.3 billion in a federal loan guarantee to support the Lower Churchill Hydroelectric project in Labrador. We believe it's only fair they do the same for Ontario.

The Ring of Fire presents a historic multi-generational opportunity to transform the region. We will continue to ensure mineral exploration and development grows our economy and that the Ring of Fire will be part of a bright and strong future for Northern Ontario.

they couldn't get Liberals to follow-through on their commitments. The reality is this Liberal government has done nothing for Northern Ontario and the only people profiting from the Ring of Fire are their lawyer and consultant friends in downtown Toronto.

Liberals have put Northern Ontario on the back burner for far too long. Industry is suffering, transportation services have been lost and Northerners are ignored.

More money for the Ring of Fire would have been a good step forward but we Northerners know this will be another broken promise. We all know that there is more mining activity in Northern Ontario than in the Ring of Fire. Yet this Liberal government has presented us with a plan that is completely contingent upon the Federal government matching funding contributions. The Liberal government has not put in a timeline or guarantee for this. It is obvious they are not serious about Northern economic development. This is not a reasonable plan.

As MPP for Algoma-Manitoulin, and NDP critic of Northern Development and Mines, I continue to work closely with all stakeholders, including industry, First Nations and Northern communities on a plan that works. As we all know, our Northern economy has suffered huge losses. In March 2013 I introduced Bill 43, the Mining Amendment Act (Resources Processed in Ontario)." This was a bill designed to stimulate job growth in Ontario by committing all resources extracted in Ontario to be processed in Ontario. My bill would have allowed for the creation of jobs not only at mine sites, but in refining and manufacturing sites across the province. We have smelting facilities operating in Timmins, and steel production facilities already operating in Hamilton and Sault Ste Marie. Instead of shipping the raw materials around the world to be processed, Ontario could have fulfilled the North American demand for steel on our own. With a massive mining development being proposed in our province's far north, this was a perfect opportunity to not only grow our mining industry, but also to re-invigorate the manufacturing industry in Ontario. Yet, in April 2013, both the Liberal government and Hudak's Conservatives voted it down.

Ontario's New Democrats have a real plan that will deliver tangible results for everyone. Liberal mismanagement threatens to extinguish the Ring of Fire and other mining opportunities across Northern Ontario, Liberals cannot be trusted to develop our Northern Ontario economy.

“One hour’s reflection is preferable to seventy years of pious worship.”

Liberals said just to get elected.

But, if you looked in the background, you'd see a Liberal candidate and school trustee named Kathleen Wynne taking notes for future use—like the election promise 11 years down the road of a billion dollars for the Ring of Fire.

So here we are.

Do you believe her now? The Liberals, after all, have a well-documented record of saying or doing anything to protect their own jobs, not your jobs.

The time has come to change the team that leads, and elect a party that understands the North and sees the Ring of Fire for what it is.

And that's an economic opportunity of a lifetime.

The Ontario PCs understand this. Vic Fedeli, former mayor of North Bay, and our party's finance critic when the House went dark for this election, has been to the Ring of Fire four times, talking to stakeholders, getting to the nub of the needs.

This campaign is a time for opportunity for Ontario. The choice is clear, and so is our message: Hope in on the way. This is a time to put on Ontario on the track.

This is a time to put the Ring of Fire on the world's map.

Unlike the government, and certainly unlike the NDP, Ontario PC Leader Tim Hudak has foreseen the obstacles and has a plan to clear the path to harvesting the vast resources of chromite, copper, nickel and zinc.

The Liberals, meanwhile, say you can't get there from here, and are blaming the feds in a last-gasp attempt at deflecting a blame that lies squarely on their shoulders.

Kathleen is more interested in saving Liberal jobs than creating jobs in the North.

We see the North as a jobs mother lode.

The Ontario PCs, in fact, represents the only party with an action plan to create jobs, balance the budget and get Ontario's economy working better.

Without question, as this election moves forward, the Liberals and the NDP carry the heavy can for why the Ring of Fire remains so dormant.

And so they should.

The NDP has supported the Liberals' inaction on the Ring of Fire every step of the way. On their own, they are unrealistic, unaffordable and unprepared.

About 500 kilometres northeast of Thunder Bay is a chromite deposit believed to be the largest in the world. But when Cliffs Natural Resources suspended its operation last November, and the $3 billion in investment that went with it, it wasn't because they had second thoughts or believed the chromite wasn't really there.

It was because the Liberals had no plan, no vision, and no commitment.

Only new leadership and new direction will deliver the promise of the Ring of Fire.

Tim Hudak and the Ontario PCs have the handle on both.

Manitoulin Health Centre Minutes

North East LHIN presentation

Kristen Taus, outreach officer for Sudbury and Manitoulin for the North East Local Health Integration Network (NE LHIN), and NE LHIN board member Rick Cooper started April’s Manitoulin Health Care (MHC) board meeting with a presentation on the NE LHIN and its role.

They reviewed the LHIN’s mandate, its role and responsibilities and the one regional health care plan as well as the integrated health service plan.

CEO report

MHC CEO Derek Graham delivered his April report at the MHC board meeting last month. He began by welcoming Vanda Cooper to the position of quality lead.

“Vanda brings a wealth of knowledge and experience to this portfolio and we look forward to her contributions,” said Mr. Graham.

“The new information technology (IT) equipment that was purchased under the Small Hospital Innovation IT funding has arrived and is being deployed,” Mr. Graham continued. “The first priority was the laptop stations on wheels for clinical areas. Also the patient care clinical documentation is live. Congratulations to everyone involved for making this a reality. This is a very important step in the growing of our shared regional electronic patient records.”

He also noted that a purchase order had been issued for new infusion pumps for both the Little Current and Mindemoya hospital sites. “It may take some time for delivery to occur due to licencing of the new generation pumps by Health Canada.”

“A recent consultant’s report on Meditech Pharmacy’s optimization across the North-East highlighted MHC’s deployment as being a success story for other small sites to follow,” he continued. “And approval has been given from the capital branch of the ministry (of Health and Long Term Care) to take the Manitoulin Central (Mindemoya) Family Health Team construction project to tender. This represents a major milestone for this effort.”

He also discussed the installation of the new way-finding and room identification signage that has been completed at both hospital sites. “The product is receiving positive feedback from stakeholders,” he added.

“Planning for a mock disaster in early May is underway,” explained Mr. Graham. “Also, staff surveys for safety and work-life have been distributed and are being completed.”

Mr. Graham concluded his report by discussing the Ontario budget and advocacy efforts underway through the OHA to communicate with the government and the need for small hospital inflationary adjustments.

Chief of Nursing report

Chief of Nursing Mary Lynn Wright reported to the board that preparation for accreditation in June is continuing and the hospital has a mock code day planned for May.

“The quality and integration lead started this week and she will be leading many of the quality initiatives we have underway and working with our partnership groups,” explained Ms. Wright. “As well, the pharmacy and therapeutics committee met recently and have developed a policy and process for antibiotic stewardship, formalizing the structure to monitor antibiotic use.”

Under the patient care section of her report, Ms. Wright noted that the electronic charting on the inpatient units has gone live.

“Staff are adjusting well to the new method of documentation,” she added. “Thanks to Vicky and Heather for their leadership in this project and to the staff for their flexibility and acceptance of the

“The ACLS (advanced cardiac life support) course was held this week with 10 nurses completing the course,” Ms. Wright continued. “Also, the Northern Ontario Palliative pain and symptom management consultant has attended interagency meetings at MHC to support local initiatives. She works for VON (Victoria Order of Nurses) and Maison Vale Hospice acting as a regional resource to providers. She is sharing her newsletters on updates and education with our staff.”

“The CCAC (Community Care Access Centre) held their annual meeting at MHC with a meet and greet luncheon,” explained Ms. Wright. “This was well attended by Island partner representatives. Our integrated position was announced, this position has been enabled due to the efforts of MHC creating an understanding of gaps in home care on Manitoulin and the need for better communication and integration throughout all Island communities.”

Chief of Staff Report

MHC Chief of Staff Dr. Stephen Cooper began his report noting that Dr. Quackenbush and Dr. Renwick have both been away providing health care in Nicaragua for two weeks.

“In their absence, Dr. Mirka and I are covering OBS (office based surgery) while they are away,” he said.

“The third year NOSM (Northern Ontario School of Medicine) students have finished their term,” Dr. Cooper continued. “We held a final farewell dinner for them to conclude their time with us. They had good things to say about the support they received working on Manitoulin.”

He also discussed how Dr. Jeffery, Dr. Bedard, Dr. McRae, Dr. Wilson and himself attended Northern Constellations, a NOSM event for clinical teachers in Thunder Bay.

“I have finished my HSM-sponsored leadership course,” Dr. Cooper reported to the board. “We had a good final session with physician leaders from our region (including Dr. Willet, the new assistant dean of faculty affairs at NOSM).”

He also noted that he had the opportunity to meet with policy and regional staff at the LHIN to discuss physician engagement projects.

MHC auxiliary

Based on the MHC auxiliary report, the board carried a motion to elect Dave Sylvester as the auxiliary president. Other new positions noted in the auxiliary minutes were vice president Bard Allard-Baker, Marilee Hore as treasurer, Sue Lafreniere as secretary, Barbara Lawrence as in memoriam committee chair, Laila Kiviaho as publicity committee chair, Caitlin Young as goodwill committee chair, Leona Sylvester, membership committee chair, Dave Sylvester as board liaison, June McConnell as tuck cart/showcase committee chair, Marilee Hore as HELPP lottery committee chair, Caitlin Young as Facebook committee chair and Dave Sylvester as coin box committee chair.

First Nations Education Act—would be put on hold until the Assembly of First Nations (AFN) “clarifies its position.”

“The fact that the minister is waiting for the AFN to come up with another position shows us that his government really doesn’t value the voice of First Nation citizens, because the First Nation opposition to Bill C-33 is pretty clear,” says Chief Madahbee. “The message the minister should be taking from Shawn Atleo’s resignation is that the national chief recognized that First Nations across Canada don’t want this legislation. Our people have told their leaders they don’t want Stephen Harper or Bernard Valcourt dictating how First Nations children should be educated.”

“They want that bill killed right now,” he added.

The grand council chief referred to a special chiefs’ assembly being planned for today, May 14, in Ottawa.

“The AFN is a First Nations organization and it is supposed to reflect the voice of First Nations peoples,” the chief continues. “The national chief’s resignation resulted from the organization getting caught up in the federal Conservative agenda. National Chief Atleo and some members of the AFN executive were given false expectations by a manipulative government. The purpose of this meeting will be to re-focus the Assembly of First Nations on its original purpose—to serve as a voice for the people. We chiefs are just advocates.”

Chief Madahbee said he planned on participating in the May 14 assembly, and to demonstrate support for a major rally being staged the same day on Parliament Hill to draw attention to over 1,100 missing and murdered aboriginal women in Canada.

“It’s a national disgrace that the prime minister continues to reject a public inquiry,” he said. “No one in Canada should have to live in fear for their personal safety.”

Assiginack Council Notes

Cardwell Street reconstruction begins

Last week, Interpaving, the company hired by Assiginack for the Cardwell Street reconstruction project, arrived with a load of culverts—the start of the highly anticipated road reconstruction undertaking that will see the upgrading of the municipal thoroughfare that connects Manitowaning with Wikwemikong.

Council passed a motion to grant permission to Interpaving to use the Assiginack public works yard for the storage of culverts while construction begins.

Manor update

Councillor Paul Moffat, who sits on the board of the Manitoulin Centennial Manor, told council that the financial position of the Manor was “quite good” this year, but that the nursing home was still struggling with staff retention. Council was pleased to hear that the occupancy rate is at 99.5 percent.

“We had an audit and the financial people were pleased,” Councillor Moffat said.

“It’s a great big breath of relief, isn’t it,” said Councillor Les Fields, noting the Manor’s former financial woes. “It’s taken awhile to get there.” Ms. Fields is a former chair of the Manor’s board of directors.

Safe Drinking Water report

Council reviewed the Safe Drinking Water report for the Sunsight Estates water treatment plant.

“I didn’t really see any issues,” Reeve Brad Ham said.

“It was an excellent report,” Councillor Moffat added.

“It’s a very satisfying report, but I wonder if they understand how much it costs to service so few people,” Councillor Fields stated.

“If only we could entice 30 more people to move in,” Councillor Moffat mused.

New library update

Council reviewed a budget estimate from PBK Architects on the soon-to-be new library location at the former Harasym Accounting and Insurance building on Queen Street which gave the municipality two estimate options: the all-in package at $282,196.31 and the minimum work required package at $157,899.60. Council agreed that the latter figure would be best.

“The sooner we get it up and running the better,” Councillor Moffat said. “I think this is a very workable solution.”

Councillor Brenda Reid suggested the library board take some of the building improvements that were included in the all-in package and assume them directly for their own fundraising.

Councillor Fields asked that the report go to the library board to see what, if any, items they would like to take on themselves before going to tender, such as the deck.

Clerk Hobbs said the new library location would likely be open before the end of council’s term in October.

Telecom report

Mr. Hobbs reviewed the findings of Telecom Enterprises with council, which was tasked with undertaking a review of the municipality’s telecommunications system with the hope of realizing a cost savings.

Mr. Hobbs said he has not been able to find a good cell service policy for the municipality to adopt. “I can’t protect the employee’s privacy and the municipality’s fiscal integrity at the same time,” he said. “As most of your employees have personal cell phones and very few have ever submitted an invoice for using them for township purposes, I think this might be the most cost efficient and effective policy for the foreseeable future, but of course it is council’s call.”

Public Works superintendent Ron Cooper told council that the public works radios still work “pretty well.”

Council decided to keep the status quo.

Council supports 138th Fall Fair

Council received a request for its annual donation of support for the 138th Fall Fair, which passed.

Councillor Reid said that while she has nothing against supporting the fall fair, she wondered if Assiginack should create a line item in the yearly budget for donation requests, with a timeline that groups must have their yearly requests in by each year “as the donations are coming in fast and furious.”

Mr. Hobbs said that treasurer Deb MacDonald always takes into account the regular donation requests, but agreed that there are more than ever.

“It can’t be ‘never never land’ forever,” Councillor Fields added.

Council also passed a $100 donation to the United Fish and Game Clubs of Manitoulin.

Burns Wharf study

“This is money we have to spend to find out how much money we have to spend,” Mr. Hobbs explained of the study, commissioned by PBK Architects.

PBK Associates gave the fee structure to study the remedial work proposed in the recent building code review, as well as a comparison between the costs of remedial work to the existing building versus the cost of constructing a new building of an equivalent area. The total fee for this study is $3,200 plus HST.

Because the building does not meet the building code, the Burns Wharf Theatre cannot use the space with the audience capacity it had been running at previously.

“We have to do it,” Councillor Moffat said.

Reeve Ham said he wanted to see the continuation of summer plays put on by the Burns Wharf Theatre, as they are such a draw to the community with all of council noting the theatre’s importance to the community.

Hydro billing update

After numerous complaints, including one to the Ombudsman, Assiginack finally received bills for the arena ice plant and Sunsight Estates water treatment plant months later.

Mr. Hobbs told council that treasurer Deb MacDonald “deserves a lot of credit for keeping her eye on this.” Ms. MacDonald managed to guess, for budgeting purposes, within $400 of the actual amount.

Make Assiginack Edible

The latest in the list of Assiginack events from events coordinator Jackie White is the Make Assiginack Edible campaign. “This entails turning our community into an edible community,” she said. “To grow vegetables everywhere throughout the township, by raised beds, gardens or pots. Turning flower gardens into vegetable gardens, having pots of lettuce in front of businesses, ensuring that we can ‘eat our landscape.’”

Extra produce would go to the Plant a Row, Grow a Row drive which sees extra vegetables donated to the Good Food Box program.

Councillor Fields said it would be wonderful if the horticulture society grew vegetables in Manitowaning’s iconic large flower barrels instead of flowers.

Teacher awards

Council received notification that two teachers at Assiginack Public School will be receiving Board awards for Excellence on May 21. Heather Pennie will be receiving the William N. Roman Teacher of the Year Award and Ray Scott will be receiving a Co-Curricular Award of Excellence.

Council agreed to send a note of congratulations to the school.

Noojmowin Teg Health Centre Community Members’ Feedback Invited Reminder: Last Day is May 30, 2014

We are reminding community members who access health services from Noojmowin Teg providers at your local First Nation health clinic – medical, mental health, health promotion and/or traditional health- that we are still interested in hearing from you. We can only improve what we do if you let us know what you think about our services, and about what your continued health needs and priorities are.

The deadline for receiving your feedback is May 30, 2014. If you fill in a ballot or give the survey team your information, your name will be entered into a draw to win: 1st Prize - Grocery Hamper $150; 2nd Prize - Canadian Tire Gift Card $100; or 3rd Prize - Rainbow Ridge Gift Card $50.

Mariette Sutherland and Marion Maar, as the evaluating team, thank those who have already provided feedback. They would also be pleased to receive more input from others.

Three (3) options are available to you to give your feedback:

1. Noojmowin Teg health providers will offer you a survey when you attend an appointment or participate in a group activity with them – ask them for one! The survey is also available in the lobby/reception area of each First Nation health clinic. Once you fill in the survey, deposit it in a survey drop off box located in a central spot, or at the Noojmowin Teg health centre (in Aundeck omni Kaning).
2. Facebook mini poll - Log on to:
<https://www.facebook.com/MarietteSutherlandConsulting>
3. “Kitchen table conversations” - Please call Mariette at (705) 285-1485 if you would like to schedule a visit as a group, or at your home, or by phone. Tea or informal visits can still be scheduled until May 23rd.

All feedback is anonymous. If you have any questions, please don’t hesitate to call Mariette McGregor-Sutherland (705) 285-1485 or Pamela Williamson, Noojmowin Teg Executive Director (705) 368-2182 x204; or p.williamson@noojmowin-teg.ca. Miigwetch, thank you. Check out our web-site: www.noojmowin-teg.ca or Facebook at “Noojmowin Teg client survey 2014.”

Honora Bay sinkhole urges Northeast Town residents to report spring road damage

Honora Bay resident Kyla Jansen had a scare earlier last month when her car drove into a large sinkhole by her home and business Honora Bay Riding Stables. Thankfully only her bottom tires got stuck and she was able to drive out without her vehicle being damaged. Ms. Jansen called Northeast Town staff who were quickly dispatched and able to refill and repair the road damage. Town CAO Dave Williamson explained that staff do daily road patrols, but appreciate the public calling if they see a problem or something staff may have missed. To contact the manager on call, 24/7, call, 705-348-0360.

Manitoulin Secondary School (MSS) students show off their 'new' prom dresses from the Beauty and the Beats campaign, providing new and/or gently used formal dresses and accessories for MSS girls.

Island girls ‘get dressy’ for prom thanks to Beauty and the Beats

by Robin Burrridge

MANITOULIN—Manitoulin Secondary School (MSS) students are prom ready thanks to a new campaign, ‘Beauty and the Beats,’ that collected new and/or gently used formal dresses and accessories from across the Island and distributed them to MSS students last week.

“We had over 50 girls come out last week for the ‘shopping day’ held at MSS,” explained one of the Beauty and the Beats organizers Kristin Bickell. “We gave away over 30 dresses, with a lot of the girls bringing in old dresses to trade for a new one to wear to this year’s prom. The girls seemed to have a lot of fun helping each other—there was a lot of laughter and support. We also gave out lots of shoes, clutches and jewellery to go with the dresses.”

“We had great support from the entire Island community on the campaign, with over 60 dresses donated, along with accessories,” added Ms. Bickell. “Thanks to Dawn Noble-McCann, the MSS fashion teacher who opened up her classroom for the campaign, we were able to offer additional opportunities for girls to pick dresses this week.”

Inspired by the ‘All Dressed up’ program in Sudbury, Ms. Bickell, along with Ms. Noble-McCann and Annette Cada, started the Beauty and the Beats campaign earlier this spring, encouraging Manitoulin residents to donate gently used dresses and accessories to benefit MSS students who needed prom wear.

With the increasing prices of formal dresses and accessories, Ms. Bickell explained to The Expositor that she and the co-organizers of Beauty and the Beats started the campaign to assist Island girls, while also providing a service that promotes reusing and repurposing.

“We were very pleased at how the first year for Beauty and the Beats turned out and will be holding on to the dresses in the hopes of running the event again next year,” concluded Ms. Bickell. “We would also like to thank Break-a-way Sports in Little Current who provided their store as a drop off location, Sudbury Steam Cleaners who discounted the dry cleaning of the dresses and MSS Student Council who covered the remaining costs of the dry cleaning.”

Kina Gbezhgomi Child and Family Services Employment Opportunities

Kina Gbezhgomi Child and Family Services (KGCFs) delivers Prevention Services (Child and Family Services and Community Support Services) and Foster Care services in collaboration with our member First Nations. Currently KGCFs is in a transitional phase towards designation as a Children's Aid Society to deliver Child Welfare services with our member First Nations within the Districts of Sudbury and Manitoulin.

KGCFs makes every effort to ensure all services provided are respectful of the communities that are serviced; respectful of the culture, language, beliefs, customs and practices of the Ojibway-Odawa-Pottawatomi peoples.

To support our successful transition to child welfare services delivery, we are recruiting professional and progressive individuals to join our team in the following capacities:

- Cultural Coordinator (Full Time - 1 Year - Contract)

Reporting to the Executive Director, the Cultural Coordinator supports the agency by developing and enhancing bi-cultural service practices, which are designed to enhance positive and strong cultural identities. The Cultural Coordinator hosts regularly scheduled community cultural events to facilitate the preservation and promotion of traditional practices within member First Nations.

- Team Assistant (Full Time - 1 Year - Contract)

The Team Assistant is responsible for completing administration requirements related to opening new client files, closing old files, and scanning all client file information. The TA constructively participates as a team member in staff meetings, seminars and training sessions as required by the Supervisor of Support Services. The TA also completes administrative requirements as required for Agency and Ministry audits.

- Legal Assistant (Full Time - 2 year contract)

The Legal Assistant is responsible for coordinating the provision of legal services as directed by the Legal Counsel. This will include preparing relevant legal documentation or correspondence; conducting legal research; assisting with trial preparation and assisting in the preparation for other child welfare litigation related processes.

For additional information or to obtain a detailed job description, please visit our website at www.kgcf.org/employment.

We invite applicants to submit a cover letter, resume, and three letters of reference (one from most recent/current employer) marked confidential to:

Kina Gbezhgomi Child and Family Services
Attention: Human Resources
98 Pottawatomi Avenue, Wikwemikong, Ontario, P0P 2J0
by Email: hr@kgcf.org
by Facsimile: 705-859-2195

Closing Date: May 21, 2014 at 4:00 p.m.

All applications are appreciated; however, only those candidates selected for an interview will be contacted. The successful applicant will be required to submit a criminal reference check including a vulnerable sector screening and a driver's abstract.

MEETING OPEN TO THE PUBLIC

stration was the decision of the Harper government to not hold an inquiry into missing and murdered women across Canada. “The number went up to more than 1,126 two weeks ago,” he said, citing a recent report from the RCMP. That report by RCMP Commissioner Bob Paulson reported that police have compiled a list of 1,026 deaths and 160 missing-persons cases involving aboriginal women, a number hundreds higher than that previously cited in the media.

The decision to expand the demonstration to a global focus was in part a response to the plight of a group of 276 Nigerian schoolgirls kidnapped by the terrorist group Boko Haram in that country.

On the Monday following the protest, law professor James Anaya, the United Nation’s (UN) special rapporteur on indigenous rights, upped the ante in pressure on the Harper government with an official call for the government to conduct an inquiry.

The special envoy exhorted the federal government to “look into the disturbing phenomenon of missing and murdered aboriginal women and girls.”

“The federal government should undertake a comprehensive, nationwide inquiry into the issue of missing and murdered aboriginal women and girls, organized in consultation with indigenous peoples,” reads the report.

Mr. Anaya’s report was based on information he compiled after spending nine days in Canada last year meeting with First Nations representatives and government officials. He found that there is still a “well-being gap” between aboriginal and non-aboriginal people in Canada; that treaty and other aboriginal claims remain unresolved; and that aboriginal people have “high levels of distrust” toward all levels of government.

“Our government is proud of the effective and incremental steps taken in partnership with aboriginal communities,” reads a statement from Aboriginal Affairs Minister Bernard Valcourt in a government response citing the steps the federal government has taken to deal with the issue. “We are committed to continuing to work with our partners to make significant progress in improving the lives of aboriginal people in Canada.”

Opposition parties condemned the Conservative government’s decision to not hold an inquiry.

“If this were to happen to any other group in our society there would be a lot more attention, outrage, and government action,” said Algoma-Manitoulin-Kapuskasing MP Carol Hughes in a release on the issue of missing and murdered women. “I truly believe most Canadians are more concerned about this than the prime minister is, which is a real shame.”

Ms. Hughes said the government has to pay attention to the details of the special relationship with First Nations instead of trying to dictate how it will proceed. She said that she believes success will be achieved when the government starts listening and responding to the concerns of First Nations.

“The government seems set on picking legislative fights that only strain relations,” said Ms. Hughes. “First Nations are telling us that a national public commission of inquiry into murdered and missing aboriginal women is an immediate priority and the government isn’t even listening.”

MEET THE CANDIDATES— Meet and hear the candidates for Algoma-Manitoulin who are seeking your vote on June 12. Next Wednesday, May 21, there is an all-candidates night at Manitoulin Secondary School, beginning at 7 pm. There will be, as usual, the opportunity to pose questions from the floor and to chat informally with the candidates over coffee and a doughnut following the formal event. This community service event is organized by The Manitoulin Expositor. 52-1p

“This report clearly articulated both the serious and persistent crisis in outcomes for indigenous people in this country,” said Liberal Indian Affairs critic MP Carolyn Bennett, “and that the steps taken by the Conservatives have not only failed to address this crisis, but have created a high level of distrust towards the federal government.”

“The rapporteur also noted the lack of trust many indigenous people feel toward this Conservative government,” said New Democrat MP Jean Crowder in another statement. “Continuing to ignore calls for an inquiry into missing and murdered indigenous women only increases that distrust because people honestly don’t understand why they continue to ignore what amounts to a public safety emergency.”

Mr. Pangowish noted that the general public seems to support a formal closer look at the issue, although the media seems to be falling short.

“We got a lot of support from people driving by,” said Mr. Pangowish of the demonstration, but he was dismayed at the lack of attention from most media outlets. “CTV and the (Mid-North) Monitor were all told about the protest,” he said, “but we didn’t see any of them all day.”

Mr. Pangowish said that he was delighted with the number of people who came out to support the demonstration. “We had 22 people who came out to support the call for governments to protect women from abuse,” he said.

Township of Assiginack Landfill Expansion

Environmental Screening Process

Notice of Second Public Meeting

Thursday, May 22, 2014

The Township of Assiginack has initiated the Environmental Screening Process (ESP) in accordance with Ontario Regulation 101/07 under the Environmental Assessment Act (EAA) for the proposed expansion of the Township’s landfill site, located on Sucker Lake Road. This regulation is directed partially at small, rural waste disposal sites and select waste projects are exempt from Part II of the EAA if the ESP is completed.

The Township’s current landfill site has a waste disposal capacity of approximately 35,000 m³ and is anticipated to have filled that capacity by 2015. The Township is proposing to expand the landfill site’s current waste disposal capacity from 35,000 m³ to approximately 70,000 m³.

The Process

The ESP is intended to determine the feasibility of the landfill expansion and will assess the potential effects of the proposed project. The screening of the proposed project will be consistent with the process described Government of Ontario’s Guide to Environmental Assessment Requirements for Waste Management Projects.

Consultation

Members of the public, agencies and other interested persons are encouraged to actively participate in the planning of this undertaking by attending consultation opportunities or contacting the project team directly with information, comments or questions. This is the second public meeting for this process and will be held on Thursday, May 22 from 5:30 pm to 8:00 pm at the Township Office, 25 B Spragge Street, Manitowaning.

To request more information on the project, provide comments or be added to the project mailing list, please contact:

SADIE MARGARET DEBASSIGE
JULY 18, 1954 - APRIL 6, 2014

In loving memory of Sadie Margaret Debassige, a resident of Providence Bay, who passed away peacefully at her home on Sunday, April 6, 2014 at the age of 60 years. She was born in Mindemoya. Daughter of the late Beatrice (Debassige) Ense and Harold Ense. Sadie was a wonderful, kind and outgoing person. She was very active in her community. Although she was faced with many health struggles, she always was cheerful and a fun person to be with. Sadie loved cribbage, euchre, bingo, quilting and crochet and helped her late brother Ron at Abby's Restaurant. Sadie loved to watch hockey and cheering local teams on. Her greatest joy was her grandchildren Jordan Cody, Jaylyn, Brandon and Phoenix. Sadie is survived by her beloved partner Eldridge McCulligh; her children Randy, Elsie, Martha and Jay. Loving and loved sister of Martin (Justeen), Gerald (Debbie), Geraldine (Bill), Abby, Norma (Gary) and sister-in-law Janette Corston. Predeceased by son Brian, mother Beatrice (Debassige) Ense, father Harold Ense, brothers Floyd, Ron and Ken Ense. Sadly missed by nieces and nephews Elvis, Kyle, Beatrice, Nancy, Jeremy, Ramona, Robin, Darryl, Whitney, Floyd, Pheonix, Celina, Jeffery, Daphne, Darren Jr., Gerard, Shane, Jared, Aunties Gina, Elizabeth and close friend Don Tonnelly. Also survived by many great-nieces, great-nephews, cousins and friends. A graveside service will be conducted at Providence Bay Cemetery on June 1, 2014 at 11 am. Online condolences may be left at www.culginfuneralhome.ca. Culgin Funeral Home, Gore Bay, 705-282-2270.

BETTINA GRACE (HUTCHINSON) MCGREGOR

With loving thoughts and memories of Bettina Grace (Hutchinson) McGregor who passed away peacefully at her home in Sandfield, Ontario, the morning of Thursday, December 19, 2013, at the age of 92. Beloved wife of George McGregor (predeceased December 1995). Daughter of Elias and Grace (Mitchell) Hutchinson (both predeceased). Loving sister of Jean McLennan (Gladdin "Happy" -predeceased) of Manitowaning; Doris Williamson (Orion "Bus" -both predeceased) of Mindemoya; Douglas Hutchinson (Mary) of Sandfield, Mary Lou Lothead (Alec) of London Ontario and Harold Hutchinson (predeceased infant). Betty was born in Sandfield, spent many years away, returning in 1984. She was a Board Member for the Women's Institute, a Secretary for the Manitou Merrymakers and Owner and Operator of Hutchinson's Cabins and Campground for many years. Betty was a devoted member of the Pentecostal Church. Her relationship with the Lord was most important to her. She was a warm, giving, caring person who helped others and always saw the positive in people. She will be remembered fondly by all those that knew her. Visitation was at Tehkummah Pentecostal Church, Sunday, December 22, 2013 from 1 pm to 4 pm and Monday, December 23, 2013 from 10 am to 11 am. Funeral Service was on Monday, December 23, 2013 at 11 am. Graveside service will be held on Friday, May 16, 2014 at 3 pm at Hilly Grove Cemetery. All welcome. God is the one who gives us peace in the midst of turmoil and strength for each day. Online condolences www.islandfuneralhome.ca. Arrangements entrusted to Island Funeral Home, Little Current.

CHARLES HERBERT WRIGHT
APRIL 15, 1956 - DECEMBER 10, 2013

In loving memory of Herb Wright, a resident of Gore Bay, who passed away December 10 in his sleep. Herb was born in Gore Bay, son of the late Max and Mildred (Turner) Wright. He had worked at various jobs mostly involving carpentry, and had worked for a time out west. Herb was a friendly guy, enjoyed visiting with all, and talk and socialize. He liked to fish and hunt in earlier years. Herb had a cat for a period of time and liked to go for walks with his pet. Herb was a visible presence in the town, and will be missed. He leaves behind his children, daughter Sylinda VanAmerongon (husband Tim) and son Tyler Slade; grandchildren Abigail, Hanna, Sarah and Benjamin. Brother of Maxine Brockelbank (husband late Roy) of Echo Bay, Harry (wife Velma) of Sault Ste. Marie, Arthur (Sid), (wife Edna) of Gore Bay, Alex (wife Nancy) of Espanola and Anne Cranston (husband Henry) of Bruce Station, along with many nieces and nephews. At Herb's request there will be cremation. A graveside service will be held at Gordon Cemetery on Saturday, May 17, 2014 at 1 pm. Interment at the Gordon Cemetery. If so desired, donations to the Gore Bay Medical Centre or the charity of your choice would be appreciated. Online condolences may be left at www.culginfuneralhome.ca. Surveying Manitoulin’s owl populations

by Lori Thompson
TEHKUMMAH—Bird Studies Canada was looking for Island volunteers with a keen sense of hearing to participate in an annual nocturnal owl study last month. Christa Paquette of Sudbury responded and late in April spent a cool evening listening for owls and other nocturnal sounds along a 20 km stretch of Government Road near Providence Bay.

Armed with a clipboard, a CD and a Bluetooth speaker, Ms. Paquette arrived at Gordon’s Park earlier in the day where she met up with fellow volunteer Paul Beduhn. Mr. Beduhn, who leads “owl prowls” and night hikes at Gordon’s Park, was a perfect fit to accompany Ms. Paquette during the survey.

The primary target species for Manitoulin Island routes (there are four) were barred and Northern saw-whet owls, neither of which is at risk at this time. Surveyors also listened for long-eared owls and boreal owls. The goal of the Ontario Nocturnal Owl Survey is to monitor owl populations. It began in 1995 and is conducted in partnership with the Ontario Ministry of Natural Resources. Volunteers perform the actual count with a partner, using their own transportation.

According to Bird Studies Canada, owls are notoriously difficult to count. They are secretive, primarily nocturnal, and roost in concealed locations during the day. As a result, Ontario’s owl populations are not adequately monitored through existing programs.

This type of survey, called a broadcast survey, involves the playback of prerecorded owl songs and has been used to successfully census a variety of bird species. Owls are territorial and a resident owl may respond to the broadcast song in an attempt to defend its territory.

Ms. Paquette and Mr. Beduhn arrived at their starting point in Providence Bay shortly after sunset. On the way there they listened once again to the training CD that was provided to help them become familiar with the various calls. In addition to owls, surveyors are asked to record any ruffed grouse, common snipe, and American woodcock they may see or hear along their route. These birds aren’t truly nocturnal but they are most active at dusk and at dawn and are likely to be heard at the first few stops. On this route, several ruffed grouse were heard.

At the first stop, Ms. Paquette played the 12-minute MP3 through a Bluetooth speaker set on the roof of her car. It consisted of two minutes of silent listening, followed by one set of boreal owl calls and four sets of barred owl calls alternating with timed listening periods. There were no sounds to report so the team drove two kilometres down Government Road to stop number two. There were 10 stops in total.

It’s not as easy as it sounds. You have to stand relatively still on a cold April night while listening intently for specific and possibly distant sounds. Still, “it was interesting,” Ms. Paquette said when it was all over. “I think we did better than expected as far as the total number of species heard. We heard a boreal owl at stop four, a barred owl at stop six, and both a northern saw-whet owl and a long-eared owl at stop eight. We also heard ruffed grouse “drumming” at three of the 10 locations.”

There were no vehicles encountered and the noise level was “very low to moderate.” It was most noisy in areas with water such as running streams or waves breaking at Providence Bay, or in marshy areas where the spring peepers and other frogs were calling. At one stop a coyote howled nearby. Most of the owl calls were heard where there was a combination of open fields bordering on forest.

Mr. Beduhn agreed that it was “cool to learn that they (owls) are spread out around the Island so well (even though we only surveyed a small area).” He also enjoyed listening for other night sounds. For future owl prowls, he will “definitely be letting others know about the experience, and to get them to just listen to all the other sounds that are happening while we listen for the owls.”

The 2014 survey won’t be completed until the end of April. “This year may actually run late due to the lack of accessible roads in the North,” said Kathy Jones, Ontario Programs Volunteer Coordinator with Bird Studies Canada. She may be able to “ball park some information regarding the Manitoulin routes in late May or early June” but specific details won’t be available until the analysis is complete in the fall/winter.

Numbers of most owl species showed a decline in 2013 for both the central and Northern Ontario regions surveyed. The barred owl was again the most frequently detected owl while boreal owl numbers dropped dramatically in 2013. In any case, said Ms. Jones, “long-term studies do not look at single year snapshots of these species as they do not provide a good idea of populations. If you check the barred owl graph you will see the numbers go up and down each year—it is the long term trend that is important.”

Students learn conservation from award winning Island conservationists

Over the course of Monday and Tuesday members of the Little Current Fish and Game Club, Ministry of Natural Resources, the Manitoulin Stewardship Council and Manitoulin Streams assisted in teaching students from vesters, Mr. Strain explains the process to the gathered students. The students then break into smaller groups and proceed to one of the display cottages, vans or outdoor exhibits. There they learn about bass nest building, with an animated Seija Deschenes of Manitoulin Streams explaining the importance of the nests, a fossil display where fossil aficionado and author Bill Caesar of White's Point talked about the Island's world famous fossils, Gary Green of Little Current explained the various fish and animals common to the Manitoulin region in one

Mr. Strain's smile is particularly broad this morning as he points out that the fish coming into Bass Creek, pretty much all alumni of the club's hatchery, are both numerous and exceptionally large this year. The practical reward of countless hours of hard, wet work harvesting the eggs and sperm and late night patrols of the creek and bay to discourage poachers and over-exuberant First Nations members exercising their traditional harvesting rights. Those late night patrols have often enlisted the aid of local First Nations elders who pointed out the importance of conservation in preserving the resource for the future seven generations.

THE MANITOULIN EXPOSITOR—1A

First Nation students showcase heritage through annual fair

by Betty Bardswich
M'CHIGEENG—Pupils at Lakeview School in M'Chigeeng celebrated Heritage Day on May 5 with great displays, awesome prizes and pizza. As Evan Farquhar, the data management and logistics coordinator at the Kenjgewin Teg Educational Institute (KTEI) and a judge for the competition, said, the event is organized through the Ontario Heritage Fair Association (OHFA), which sent 11 awards for participants. The OHFA seeks to increase public awareness and interest in Canadian history.

The children were proud to show their displays and the topics varied from 'Things to Know about Maple Syrup' to 'Midwifery' to 'Albert Einstein' and 'Justin Bieber.' Logan Sampson was happy to show many pictures of his beautiful sister Mekayla Diehl, who was recently crowned Miss Indiana USA and will soon enter the Miss USA 2014 competition. Logan also talked about the good times he had with Ms. Diehl, especially going smelt fishing.

Kingsley Roy's booth was the story of Stu Hart, a famous Canadian wrestler. "He is a really famous wrestler," Kingsley said, "and he was the father of the Hart wrestlers. He had 12 children and about six were wrestlers. And he wrestled a tiger and a grizzly bear at one time."

Luke Wabegijik had a demonstration titled 'Fancy Dancing' and he talked about how much he liked it. "It has a cool story about how it started," Luke said. "It's fast and even the Golden Age people do it."

Next to Luke was Leanne McGregor, who lives on Birch Island and has a lot of respect for Chief Tecumseh. "I decided to do Chief Tecumseh because he sounded like a great person to do and I like the way he fought in the War of 1812 against the British."

One of the displays at this Heritage Fair had three youngsters, all dressed in regalia. Avery Sutherland, Ava Owl and Carter McGregor from Birch Island all have experience in dancing at powwows and Ava talked about wearing the jingle dress. "The jingle dress is a healing dress," Ava declared, "and I like to dance the healing dance. I go to Rama and Keewadin and Sudbury to dance."

"We've all had experience with dancing at the powwows," Avery explained, "and we all listen to our history and teachings. I go to the Gathering of Nations in New Mexico to start off the new year of dancing." When asked about her regalia, Avery said that her cousin does really good beadwork and does her

"The women braid their hair and wear beaded hair clips to match their regalia."

There were several awards handed out at the Heritage Fair with the Best Trudeau winning the Reading and Remembrance Award and Caleb Blackbird and Dallas Corbiere winning one of three Founders Awards.

Other awards went to

Julian Trudeau of Biidaaban School for the Ontario Women's History Network, while the Shawanosowe School saw Leanne McGregor win for Historical Thinking, Jenna Visitor for

dresses or sometimes her mother's friend Holly will also do the regalia.

Carter has also been to several powwows and has danced at Birch Island and in M'Chigeeng. "I dance for my grandparents who passed on," he explained.

Sammie Beboning also had a dance display and this was the women's fancy shawl dancing. "I used to do the fancy shawl dancing in Wiky and M'Chigeeng at the powwows," she said.

Overall Exhibit went to Tara Hoppe of Lakeview School. Other Lakeview School winners were the Archives of Ontario Award going to Oha Cada and Niihge McLeod, the Genealogical Society Award which was won by Trinity Simon and Josephine Sagon, the Multicultural History Society Award which saw Caiylee Ense and Sarah Migwans-Bayer taking that honour, Nathan Bush and Joel

Aging at Home program van open to all communities

by Michael Erskine
AUNDECK OMNI KAN-
ING—The Aging at Home
program at Noojmowin Teg Health Centre generally provides services to those living on First Nations reserves or aboriginal people living off-reserve, but in the case of the Aging at Home Transportation Services, through a collaboration with the Local Health Integration Network (LHIN), the program extends to non-Natives as well.
“It was originally only a First Nation program,” said program administrator
Janet Fathers, who added that being in its fourth year, the program is beyond the pilot project stage. “It wasn’t as big as it could be, so a request was made to the LHIN (to extend the program to the non-Native community).”
The numbers from the First Nations were not as robust as had been originally anticipated; most likely due to most reserve communities having their own medical transport van programs in place.
Through the program,
seniors in the Manitoulin region needing transport to medical appointments can call the Noojmowin Teg Health Centre and book transportation to their appointments with the Aging at Home Van.
This free program is accessible to all Manitoulin Island residents age 55

years and older and provides pick-up and drop off transportation services only, stressed Ms. Fathers.
“It is not intended to provide medical care or assistance.”
The Aging at Home Van may be used for medical appointments, instrumental activities of daily living such as home management (banking or shopping), traditional gatherings and social events such as elder picnics, diners’ clubs and group berry picking.
The Aging at Home Van
operates on a first come, first served basis for up to 75 hours a month. But in the interests of providing ‘equitable’ service to all clients, the van is available to each client for a maximum of three bookings in any one month.
“The bookings are limited to day trips to ensure availability of the service to other clients the next day,” said Ms. Fathers. “But there may be exceptions for a series of medical appointments that may require more than three bookings a month.”
The van does have some limitations. It does not have a special wheelchair lift, but the van can transport clients in wheelchairs provided the client can transfer from the wheelchair to the van with the assistance of one person maximum.
“The client must not need to be lifted into the van,”
she noted.

The van operated on a first come, first served basis, but Noojmowin Teg Health Centre reserves the right to call clients to discuss options for booking changes, based on necessity.
Basically, an urgent medical appointment may trump a client who has booked the van for a non-medical booking, with the non-urgent client being asked to reschedule their trip to accommodate the more critical need.
Under the Aging at Home
Van usage policy, clients must sign an agreement/consent that will allow Noojmowin Teg to request the client provide proof of age, an agreement to adhere to the cancellation policy and consent to verify if the client is in fact receiving medical transportation services from their First Nation community. Of course clients accessing the Aging at Home Van will not be able to claim travel expenses for the same trip from their First Nation (or any other travel grant program).
The Aging at Home Van
has been a work in progress over the last few years and the cancellation policy has been developed to meet the demands of the real world.
Under that policy, clients are asked to call the day before the booking if they need to cancel. Although there are times when unforeseen events can make that impossible, such as awakening sick on the day of the booking, the health centre requires a client call at least three hours prior to the booking or the cancellation will be recorded as a ‘no show.’ Of course if the driver arrives to pick up the client and they are not available, that is also a no show.

Three ‘no show’ occurrences will result in the privilege of using the van being removed for that client. “The reason for this policy is due to the expenses incurred by the cancellation,” noted Ms. Fathers.
Those expenses include paying the driver for their time, the cost of gas for the van to travel to pick up the client and, of course, the van being out of use and unavailable to others when it is booked for the ‘no show.’
Ms. Fathers noted that working with the Northeast LHIN has been very positive for the program.
“Anytime we can work collaboratively on programs here in the North I think it is a very positive thing,” she said. The challenges of a dispersed population in both the Native and non-Native communities presents challenges to delivering the services that people need to remain in their homes, close to family support groups and the familiarity of their communities, as they grow older.
The Aging at Home program provides many of the services to First Nations members on and off-reserve that the Community Care Access Centres provide to the non-Native communities.

To book the Aging at Home Van, clients aged 55

years and older can call Noojmowin Teg Health Centre at 705-368-2182 and request the service.

Quilt of Belonging coming to Manitoulin Island this fall

by Betty Bardswich

MANITOULIN—Islanders are in for an extraordinary experience as The Invitation Project, The Quilt of Belonging, is coming to Manitoulin in September. The quilt, at 120 feet long and 8.5 feet wide, was coordinated by artist Esther Bryan who lives in Williamstown near Kingston. In the book that outlines the work involved in making this piece of art is an explanation that this is the largest collaborative work of textile to be created on a national scale and has 263 squares representing 71 aboriginal groups and 192 immigrant nationalities found in Canada. Different items were added to individual handmade blocks and include abalone shells, amber from Lithuania, bobbin lace, a brooch from Poland, smoked caribou hide, English wool, kente cloth from Ghana, porcupine quills, sealskin, 200-year-old German linen and worry dolls from Guatemala.

As Ms. Bryan says of the project, “Our vision was to create a collaborative work of art that will recognize Canada’s and the world’s diversity, celebrate our common humanity, and promote harmony and compassion among people.”

Each page in the Quilt of Belonging book, done to showcase this work of art, pictures all the blocks submitted for the project and a story behind the people that the block represents. Featured is a piece of art submitted by Marlene Shawanda of Wikwemikong, a beadwork designer, and the page is titled ‘Ojibwe’ and subtitled ‘birchbark and maple syrup.’ “The Ojibwe people of the Great Lakes region,” the page reads, “were resourceful hunters and gatherers who used the materials they found in practical and resourceful ways. Once the largest and most powerful tribe around the Great Lakes, the Ojibwe are now spread from Ontario to Alberta. Although they no longer use maple syrup and birch bark for quite so many purposes, the Ojibwe are still creative and resourceful.” Ms. Shawanda used the Ojibwe rose as the focal point for her quilt block and beaded it onto red felt. The border used was caribou hide.

Another artist from Wikwemikong, who submitted an Odawa block for this quilt, is Shirley Pitawanakwat, a designer of leather garments and a craft store owner. Ms. Pitawanakwat used beads to do a flower and leaves design in the traditional Woodlands style rather than something more modern for this George Brown College graduate with a major in fashion design technology. Her background for the block is also hide.

The Quilt of Belonging will be showcased, along with works done by the Island Quilters Guild members for their Hawberry Show, on September 13 from 10 am to 5 pm and September 14 from 11 to 4 at the Creation Centre in Manitowaning. From September 15 to the 17, the De-ba-jeh-mu-jig Theatre Group will welcome visitors to see this amazing quilt and will be open in the evening of September 16 so children will have an opportunity to attend.

“We couldn’t do this without De-ba-jeh-mu-jig,” said Island Quilters Guild president Myra Tallman. “We are probably the smallest group to bring in this quilt.” Indeed, this work of art has been shown at the Winter Olympics in British Columbia, at the Museum of Civilization in Hull, Quebec and at the Royal Winter Fair in Toronto. The first showing, in 2005, was at the Granite Curling Club in Waterloo.

Quilt Show Chair Kathy Grant was instrumental in getting the quilt to Manitoulin but she is quick to point out that “a lot of people helped to get this. It couldn’t happen without all the individuals coming together.” It was Ms. Tallman’s idea to get the quilt so Ms. Grant sent out an email.

“It was a challenge,” Ms. Grant said, “but I thought, okay, we are going to make this happen. I thought this was great, a happening with artistic value to reach out and create that connection between our communities. The art community, the quilters and the First Nation communities. The word De-ba-jeh-mu-jig is ‘storyteller’ and the Quilt of Belonging is telling a story and all the quilts that will be shown recognize that quilting is an artistic endeavour.” “And every quilt has a story,” added guild member Rollanda Tovey. The admission for the Island Quilters Guild Hawberry Show is $5 and everyone is encouraged to attend to see all the quilts. As Ms. Tallman said, “This is going to be a fantastic event.”

Cambrian College celebrates success of Manitoulin campus

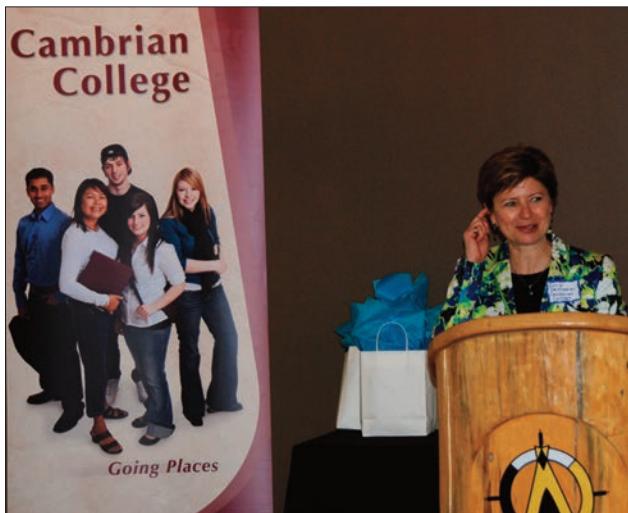

by Alicia McCutcheon
LITTLE CURRENT—Cambrian College's Manitoulin campus held a celebratory luncheon last Tuesday afternoon, celebrating the successes, the students, staff and the community members that have made the Island satellite a triumph for more than a quarter-century.

Sonia Del Missier, interim president of Cambrian College, explained that the day's lunch was to recognize and show appreciation for the clients served and to thank the employers who utilize Cambrian's services and community for their support. Ms. Del Missier also noted the learners and clients, thanking them for "choosing Cambrian."

Ms. Del Missier acknowledged the Manitoulin staff for their dedication, admitting that there are times when the "mother ship" in Sudbury forgets the Island campus exists—a testament to the fact that the Island campus is a well oiled machine.

"We know there are sometimes problems, but you don't view them as problems but rather as opportunities," the acting president said.

"We extend our deepest gratitude for really allowing Cambrian to be a part of the community," she said, giving formal recognition to Expositor publisher Rick McCutcheon, past Cambrian College board chair and also founding chair of the Manitoulin campus advisory committee. "He is such an ambassador for Cambrian College."

Acting president of Cambrian College Sonia Del Missier gives the welcoming address to the friends, students and staff of the Cambrian College Manitoulin campus during a celebratory luncheon held last week.

Shannon Cranston, proprietor of Loco Beanz and neighbour to the campus, was invited to speak and noted the many opportunities given to her and other Manitoulin Island businesses Cambrian, especially through the Employment Options program.

funds, advice and valuable information," Ms. Cranston said. "Being able to access these programs has helped me to grow my business."

"The staff at our Employment Options office has assisted me with questions regarding employment standards—minimum wage, holiday pay, sick time—they are a great resource for any HR questions and if they do not have the answer, they can certainly point you in the proper direction," she continued. "We are fortunate to have the college and Employment Options available in our community. If you have not yet become familiar with these programs, you need to. They are valuable partners to help grow your business."

Student Urban Peltier of Wikwemikong gave a moving testimony on how the Little Current campus has furthered his education into a career path. "It was really important because it gives the students a feeling of success and you don't have to leave the Island," he said.

Mr. Peltier said he first used Cambrian's services for upgrading, specifically the subjects of algebra and English he needed to go to college. He told the group how staff helped him to learn these crucial disciplines, as well as positive study habits and techniques.

"Everyone at the campus helped me," he said.

Mr. Peltier has just finished the pre-health sciences course in Sudbury this year and will enter the registered practical nurse program, also at the Sudbury campus, this fall.

The young man's story of academic success moved the audience to a hardy round of applause.

Following an acknowledgment of the Island staff for a lovely community event by Jean Brown, interim vice president academic, and the announcement of door prize winners, the guests got down to the business of lunch and socializing. Cambrian staff say they hope to make the celebratory day an annual event.

Tehkummah Talk and Times

May 5—In the tub Monday morning, and I got an invite to Pauline and Wayne’s for breakfast. Derek, Jodi and Tristen had the first invitation, all in honour of them, and they were heading back home to Mackenzie, BC. Mum and I arrived just as everyone had started eating (noted for good timing). Susan and Simon also. Lovely long breakfast, Peameal bacon, eggs, toast, fresh fruit and dipping chocolate. Sad to see them head home.

Cards with Mum, I won’t say who won. Did some yard work. Tara was a bit lucky at bingo. Made a ham bone soup.

Arnold is looking well. He visited at Wayne and Pauline’s on Monday morning.

Mum had beautiful roses on her table from Anita, Alicia and Samantha.

The farm?? continues to grow, at Susan and Simon’s.

Well isn’t it always something. Sherry phones and she’s at the vets with their Pal. Something in his throat and I guess the outcome will not be pleasant. And it wasn’t. They had to put him down. So sorry for your loss of a friend!

Today the Triangle Club meeting had an excellent presentation by Constable Allan Boyd on abuse of seniors and scams, telemarketers and their tricky methods of taking us in. Thank you for your talk and video. Had coffee and cake. During the meeting time there was an excellent bid in favour of the Mellow Movers for a break in rent to keep the exercise classes going. Good job Mary! Well spoken.

Earlier this day I stopped at Cal’s and was greeted by a wagging tail. A very friendly Percy. The newest family member. Milo was high in the rafters not sure of the dog. I had my breakfast there before going on to town. I must have been following Susan and Simon for three stops the “farmers’ were already there! A nice day, still quite a bite in the air. Miniature daffodils are blooming. Things seem slow. Birds are still eating lots of bird seed. Not too many flies for the fly catchers and I’d better get the hummingbird feed out.

Wednesday cribbage—Great to have back with us Marilyn and Del Vanhorn and Janet and Glenn Knetchel. We had five tables and fun. High hand, Del, 20; high score, Marilyn and Del, 954; second, Bert and Joyce, 936; third, Cal and I, 926; low, Jean (Mum) and Mary, 828; door prizes, Graham and Marilyn. Mum made good buttermilk tarts!

The Exterminators were well named. My team may have had a bit of an advantage in the last category. Mum sure surprised me when she got up to sing that one! Anyway, it threw us into the lead at the last. Jackie was our captain. Just Lori, Mum and I from the original team, and we lucked out by having Lynda and Matthew join us. The “Big Lakers”, a new exceptionally strong team was third with 77 points. Second, the “No Nothings” actually did with 79 points. “Snow Bird” with 72 and “Rockers” with 64. What a fun evening. Good for all our brains! Thanks to Martin and all his research once again. We appreciate all your hard work. We had lots of snacks and refreshments. Thanks providers for prizes too. I forgot to mention it in my last week’s column. If you like trivia, this is the place to be. This event was at Knox United Church Hall in Manitowaning.

Well, I’ve just been digging and a scratching in the ground. Hummingbirds are buzzing overhead as I write. Wild, wind again with another nice light show last evening.

Sunday morning—After my visit to the dump today I stopped at JDs and looked at all the floral beauty. Even bought stuff. Rainbow too! Looks ready for the moths.

Friday morning—Just overnight the currant bushes have gone green. The ground is covered in white crowned sparrows and gold finches and small birds and the cardinal are in harmony in the back ground. I’m sitting the sun with bare knees! It actually seems warm! Now a woodpecker is adding his call to the mix, and the fragrance from Anstice farm must have washed away over night. What a light show. The heat lightning was spectacular. Lovely little downpours! Rose breasted grosbeaks just flew into the feeder. What a lovely sight. Saw the first swallow this week. Who told me they saw hundreds at a bridge? The causeway perhaps?

Betty Jean and Dorothy did the euchre lunch. There were five and a half tables and much fun. I almost got a cuff in the ear for playing my cards wrong (or was that not playing them right?). I didn’t think I made mistakes. Ha! Men’s high, Clive with 86 and 5 lone hands; men’s low, Margaret, 46; ladies’ high, Marilyn Haner; ladies’ lone hands, Dorothy Allard, 5; ladies’ low, Mary Ann, 44; door, Marilyn Vanhorn.

On my way home I stopped at Carl’s and challenged him to a cribbage game and I got soundly defeated (or did I?). Hung around until he asked me to stay for supper (he was baking pork chops in the oven). They were delish.

The adder tongues are always in bloom for Mother’s Day, but not this year. Still very small buds. And then again I was wrong (for the first time ever), below the hill red and white trilliums in bloom and adder tongues too. Strange all at once. Kind of like the summer birds all at once!

Cal has some kind of a cat at his place. Making funny noises again? Scary!

Well Mother’s Day or no (I’m not his so I guess that’s okay) out of many games of cribbage. I have to admit that he’s the bestest player. Started early in the day at Mum’s. She skunked Susan, then when I joined in the game, Susan returned the same “gift” to Mum! We had a busy day taking in church (all about Mothers) at St. Andrews. Sherry met us there, then to Carol’s and Earl’s for lunch. Lori is back (looking radiant) for the summer bringing a new beau/cum kitchen help (at least for the weekend).

We went to JDs Garden Centre, wished everyone there and at the Garden Shed a Happy Mama’s Day. They were quite busy. Then down to Rainbow Gardens for a walk through. I dropped Mum off at Susan’s, then went to Cal’s. We joined Rick and Kathleen and her Mom and Dad, Anna and Don, at Carol’s and Earl’s for our delicious supper and visit. Thanks for including us, so nice.

To all Mothers (even if you’re Dads or Mamas of critters), hope your day was the happiest ever!

Monday morning just heard that Harold Arnold passed away this morning. Sympathy to all.

Our Sr. UCW gave the mothers a box of pansies this year. So pretty.

It’s funny when Kim and I were talking on the phone Sunday morning I mentioned the rose breasted grosbeak. He said we don’t get them here, just as one flew in to the field. Coincidence?

Providence Bay News and Notes

We hope all mothers enjoyed their special day.

The youth dance at Community of Christ in Providence Bay was very well attended. There were quite a few new faces.

Alec Dawson is in the hospital in Sudbury. We hope you will be feeling better soon.

On June 11 John Hopkins will be going to Sudbury for knee surgery. We hope everything goes well.

We were talking to Jackie and Gil

Lapierre in Mindemoya. It was great seeing them.

The Mindemoya Hospital Auxiliary luncheon, bazaar and bake sale went very well and the weather was fine.

Remember our seniors and veterans please give them a call or help them in any way you can.

If you have news please give me a call. Remember this is your paper so take the time to give me a call with some news.

Island Singers delight audiences with the ridiculous and sublime

by Betty Bardswich
MINDEMOYA—The Island Singers had another classic performance on May 3 at the Mindemoya Missionary Church. Titled ‘Sublime and Ridiculous,’ the group entertained with songs both funny and familiar as well as inspirational under the direction of Dorothy Anstice and guest conductor Ian Sadler of Stratford.

Ms. Anstice chose the songs for this spring recital and said that she selected music that was challenging and rewarding and that the singers would perform to a high standard. “We are very fortunate to have the fabulous talent of Holly Scott at the piano,” Ms. Anstice added. “She is our accompanist.”

Ms. Anstice also talked about Mr. Sadler. “Ian is an organist and has done organ recitals before and is our guest conductor,” she said. “So now he is a friend of the choir.”

Mr. Sadler has a very intensive musical background as outlined in the choir’s handout. He started

The Island Singers entertained at their spring concert in Mindemoya with songs from the ridiculous to the sublime. Guest conductor with the choir was Ian Sadler, artistic director with the Stratford Concert Choir and director of the Cathedral Singers of Ontario.

as a boy chorister, won a music scholarship to the Kings College, won an organ scholarship to Bristol University, held the organ scholarship at St. Paul’s Cathedral and holds many degrees in musicology and education. Mr. Sadler’s final engagement in the UK was to play the organ in the movie ‘Chariots of Fire.’

Now settled in Ontario, Mr. Sadler is the artistic director of the Stratford concert choir and is the director of the Cathedral Singers of Ontario. He performs solo recitals in Canada and around the world as a concert organist. He has received the Honourary Fellowship, the highest award of The Royal Canadian College of Organists.

Mr. Sadler talked about his trips to Manitoulin and remarked that the drive down Highway 6 reminded him of the Lake District of England. “I have been coming up since 1999 to do the organ recital at St. Francis when they had a new organ,” he told the audience. “I would do presentations with my wife, Catharine, for school children at several locations. At St. Francis, we did Peter and the Wolf. Catharine would narrate the story and I would play the Prokofiev score. Since then, I have been up several times to work with the choir. I have really enjoyed working with the choir in the past and that is particularly true with this. The choir really enjoys singing and the programs that they present are always full of variety.”

And indeed, the songs did show a musical range. “As you can see, we have started with the ridiculous,” Ms.

Anstice said as the choir finished singing about poor old Michael Finnegan from Finnegan’s Fugue arranged by Frederick Silver. An Irish traditional song, ‘Hi! Ho! The Rattlin’ Bog,’ followed, complete with Sharon Ferguson on a whistle. This in turn led to the singing of six songs about animals including ‘Counterpoint of the Animals’ with barks, meows, howling and other sounds to the amusement of the audience. Chris Theijsmeijer had everyone enthralled with his solo rendition of ‘The Gnu,’ followed by ‘I Bought Me a Cat’ by Lydia Flanagan and Ann-Marie Scott and soloist Karen Doughty with ‘The Warthog.’

The second half of the program showed Mr. Sadler as the conductor as he directed the choir in the singing of ‘Ave Maria,’ ‘Cantique de Jean Racine’ and ‘Missa Festiva’ as well as a solo performance of ‘Pie Jesu’ from Requiem by Heather Theijsmeijer.

The Island Singers choir was established in 1990 and numbers 23 singers. The group performs a Christmas concert in Mindemoya and Little Current and a spring concert in Mindemoya and has been invited to sing in Sudbury and Espanola. The choir welcomes new members and more information can be found by calling Dorothy at 705-859-3925

Spring Bay Rural Route

May 11—As I write this morning it’s very dull and cold.

Elwood and Bernice Lewis were over and visited with me last Tuesday afternoon.

At the euchre on Tuesday night at Providence Bay they had nine tables.

Allen and Rosemarie and David and Connie visited me yesterday and took me out for a Mother’s Day dinner. We had a nice meal. Rosemarie and Connie enjoyed their meal too.

A number of people enjoyed the luncheon, bake sale, etc. at the community centre in Mindemoya on Saturday morning sponsored by the Hospital Auxiliary.

Sunday was a busy day at the restaurants serving Mother’s Day brunch and dinner to so many mothers.

I have some tulips out but things are slow. I’m sure the greenhouses are finding that too.

I talked to Mieke Delange on the phone for Mother’s Day and she is doing very well.

Royce and Margaret Young had Mother’s Day dinner on Sunday with Royce and Tracey and family. Tracey sent dinner to her mother Heather as she doesn’t get around too well.

Elwood and Bernice Lewis had some of their family home for Mother’s Day.

Irwin and Irene MacIntyre had some of their family home for Mother’s Day and went out for dinner.

Reverend Bain and Lynda Peever had some of their family home for Mother’s Day.

Get well wishes and prayers to all who are sick.

We extend sympathy to the Arnold family in the sudden passing of Harold. He was an avid curler and curled with our family for many years. He will be sadly missed.

Have a good week!

An ode to mother

There wasn’t an empty seat at Tehkummah’s annual Mother’s Day Tea. The Fairview United Church Women provided entertainment, as well as delicious sandwiches and treats.
